

Marine Astronaut, Happy
And Feeling Fine, Tells U.S.
Experts About Orbit Flight

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., relaxing after his fantastic space voyage, today began to tell experts about the round-the-world trip and prepared to receive the nation's thanks from President Kennedy Friday.

The President planned to come to Cape Canaveral to greet America's first orbiting space pilot on his return here from his post-flight isolation on Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas.

Kennedy, millions of Glenn's countrymen, and millions more around the globe hailed the new conqueror of the cosmos, who Tuesday whipped three times around the world in 4 hours 56 minutes in his two-ton Friendship 7 spacecraft.

Glenn was flown to a special hospital on Grand Turk late Tuesday after he had been recovered by the U.S. destroyer Noa 22 minutes after his capsule had splashed into the Atlantic Ocean 166 miles from the island.

What the astronaut tells the doctors, scientists, technicians and engineers at Grand Turk and in weeks of briefings to follow will help shape the future course of this nation's space program.

Out of the meetings will come answers to such questions as:

What are man's capabilities and limitations in the weightless world of space?

CHANGE IN CAPSULE

What changes must be made in the Mercury capsule before astronaut Donald Slayton attempts the next U.S. orbital flight, tentatively in April?

What do the stars and the earth look like from a vantage point in space?

Do weightlessness, isolation in cramped quarters, or other pressures of space flight pose any physical or mental danger?

Glenn conclusively proved on his flight that man is far superior to machine in space. When his capsule developed control difficulty during the first orbit, he assumed partial manual control and maintained command the rest of the mission.

WANTED 3 ORBITS

He even rejected a suggestion from ground officials that he be brought down after two orbits because of the trouble. Asked if he wanted to continue, he replied: "Affirmative . . . I'm ready to go."

Project Mercury Operations Director Walter C. Williams explained later that the trouble had resulted because one of 18 gas jets on the capsule surface was plugged. Jet streams of hydrogen peroxide gas spurt through holes to control the attitude of the craft in space. The plugged hole affected movement of the capsule on the yaw-left to right-axis.

Williams said a minor refinement probably would suffice to correct the trouble. But he emphasized that had a human passenger not been aboard, the space craft would have been brought down after one orbit.

"John did a beautiful job," Williams said.

The operations director also explained that a false signal had forced a decision not to jettison the package of reverse rockets after they had ignited and brought the capsule out of orbit.

He said the false signal, caused by some unknown electronic mis-

Start Survey For Fallout Shelters

Adams County's Civil Defense Director William G. Weaver reported today that the inspection of public buildings in Gettysburg to determine their usefulness as public fallout shelters was begun this morning by a firm of Chambersburg engineers. Weaver asked full cooperation with the inspection project.

Five representatives of the firm of Frederick Nassaux Associates, Chambersburg, came here this morning to begin the Gettysburg survey that is expected to occupy the remainder of this week. From here they will go to Littlestown. Their schedule for other county towns was not available today.

The inspectors had acquired a preliminary list of buildings from the assessor's office but some community officials in various parts of the county had telephoned requests to the county CD director to have specific buildings included in the survey.

REGISTRATION IS EXPLAINED TO YOUNG GOP

"Registration and the Primary Election" was the topic of the Young Republican meeting at the courthouse Tuesday evening when Miss Aurelia Spence, in discussing registration, told the group: "A person must be 21 and a resident of Pennsylvania for one year and of Adams County for 60 days prior to the date of an election in order to be eligible to register to vote."

Registration for the primary election closes on March 26, Miss Spence said. This is also the final day to change party affiliations. Change of address cannot be effected after March 16. However, Miss Spence noted that, if a person moves after that date, he may return to his former voting place to vote. This can be done only for the first election after such a move, the clerk in the county commissioners' office explained.

An incapacitated individual may request in writing, accompanied by a doctor's certification, that a registrar visit his home to register him. Military personnel may request "absentee registration." The person's commanding officer serves as the registrar.

Miss Nancy Elledge, also a courthouse clerk, noted that the primary election this year will be May 15. She discussed voting procedures, military ballots and absentee ballots. A 30-year bond issue will be sold to pay for the project.

Every effort will be made to rush the new section to completion. The Valley School will be abandoned when the new annex is finished.

The new building will be erected on a five-acre plot the school district bought to enlarge its campus in line with state requirements. Kookan, Stabler and Associates, New Oxford, are the architects for the work.

Khrushchev Suggests Pool
With U.S. Resources On Outer Space Exploration

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev congratulated America today on Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight and suggested that the United States and the Soviet Union pool their resources to explore outer space.

He made his proposal in a message to President Kennedy, quoted by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

Khrushchev said such a joint effort "would be very beneficial to the advance of science and would be acclaimed by all peoples who would like to see scientific achievements benefit man and not be used for cold war purposes and the arms race."

Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying: "I should like to hope that the genius of man, who penetrated the depth of the universe, will be able to find a road to an enduring peace and to ensure prosperity to all peoples on our planet earth which in the space age, though it does not seem to be so large, is still dear to all its inhabitants."

Proposals for international cooperation in space exploration have been advanced at the United Nations since 1958.

URGED IN 1958

The Soviet Union first proposed that the question be put on the agenda of the General Assembly on March 15, 1958.

Six months later the United States brought in its own proposal.

The U.N. Political Committee finally approved a program unanimously last December U.S. Delegate Charles W. Yost said the approval finally got the United Nations off the launching pad. But nothing has been done so far.

The U.N. General Assembly on Dec. 12, 1958, first created an 18-member U.N. committee on peaceful uses of outer space. The assembly acted on U.S. initiative.

HANOVER TRIO
FOUND GUILTY
IN COURT HERE

Three Hanover area men were found guilty by an Adams County jury Tuesday afternoon on charges of burglary and larceny, receiving stolen goods and malicious mischief.

The three were William Franklin Huff, 22, Hanover R. 1; Russell Sterling Wonder, 23, Hanover R. 3, and Richard Luther Laughman, 23, Hanover R. 5. They were charged with breaking into the home of James T. Hockensmith, Hanover R. 4, last November, removing a number of articles and breaking 32 window panes by throwing stones through them.

Laughman testified during the trial that he had been drinking, went along in a car with the other two men and fell asleep. He said he felt the car stop and knew the others had left the car, but did not know where they had gone. Later the pair returned and put something in the trunk. The trio then returned to Laughman's car, Laughman said. One of them drove Laughman home. The next morning, he said, he found some articles in the trunk of his car which he said later turned out to be "loot" from the Hockensmith home. He had entered a plea of guilty to receiving stolen goods.

CLAIM ARTICLES FOUND

Huff claimed he had never been near the Hockensmith house, "didn't even know where it was located," Huff said he and Wonder had discovered a number of articles including a record player, a steam iron, three hurricane lamps, a sweater, a tie and coat, and a religious tapestry on a "dumpp." He said they divided the articles and gave some to Laughman. Huff explained that when police arrived at his home he knew exactly which articles were from the Hockensmith home from among all he had taken from the dumpp "because these were new and the others were older — apparently had been on the dumpp for some time." He explained that the fragile glass lamps had not broken "when tossed on the dumpp by someone else because they were in a box and must have fallen just right." Wonder did not take the stand.

Trial began Tuesday afternoon and continued this morning on a charge of arson against Huff. (Continued On Page 8)

DONATIONS TO DIMES MARCH TOTAL $2,327

Adams County motorists have donated $2,327 so far for the current March of Dimes, Mrs. Joseph E. Codori, chairman of the annual campaign for funds, reported today.

She urged additional donations by the 14,000 motorists to whom cards were sent in January. Normally the local unit of the National Foundation needs about $4,000 a year to carry on its work of aiding persons suffering from polio and those needing care for birth defects.

One-half of the money raised in the county goes to the national organization for use in research in polio, birth defects and arthritis while the other half is retained in the county. It was noted that in the last five years the county group has spent all but approximately $600 of the share of the money it has retained for such items as braces, shoes and care of polio patients, polio shot clinics and hospital and surgical care for children with birth defects. It hopes to continue its polio program and would like to extend its program in regard to birth defects.

The donations received so far, listed according to the postoffice through which the contributions were sent, are as follows: Abbotstown, $38; Arendtsville, $42; Aspers, $53; Bendersville, $33; Biglerville, $144; Cashtown, $12; East Berlin, $62; Fairfield, $62; Gardners, $80; Gettysburg, $1,088; Guernsey, $15; Hampton, $17; Idaville, $12; Iron Springs, $5; Littlestown, $114; McKnightstown, $6; McSherrystown, $75; New Oxford, $373; Orrtanna, $21; Peach Glen, $6; Seven Stars, $4; and York Springs, $65.

BOATS SINKS IN RIVER; 3 MISSING

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A tugboat sank in the Delaware River today after colliding with a Liberian tanker. Three crew members of the tugboat are missing. Capt. Harry Hayes of Rose Valley, near Media, Pa., skipper of the tug, was pulled out of the water by members of an Army Engineers vessel that rushed to the collision scene at Edge Moor, about three miles north of Wilmington.

He was taken to Delaware Hospital suffering from cuts and exposure.

Capt. John Lewis of the Engineers vessel said there was no sign of any other survivors.

The tanker, Olympia Rock, was headed downstream toward Delaware Bay at the time of the crash. The extent of damage to the tanker was not immediately disclosed.

FINE COUNTIAN IN MARYLAND

An Adams County motorist was convicted of drunken driving in magistrate's court in Frederick, Tuesday morning.

Francis W. Hook, Gettysburg R. 1, was arrested January 23 by Trooper Robert L. McAfee who observed the defendant's pickup truck weaving across Route 15 near Harmony Grove, Md.

Hook was questioned on the scene by McAfee and Trooper Neil W. Alexander. He was later taken to the State Police barracks where he volunteered to take a Breathalyzer test. This test, given by Trooper T. E. Barnes, showed a reading of .24.

IS A DIABETIC

Hook, a diabetic, who said he had taken several different kinds of pills prior to the arrest, said he had had two drinks from a pint bottle of whiskey found in his truck.

The defendant said he had a bad knee and was unable to walk a straight line during the coordination tests. He said a front wheel bearing in his truck was damaged causing the vehicle to swerve.

Magistrate Stanley Y. Bennett told Edward D. Storm, attorney for the defendant, that "before the days of the Breathalyzer, there would have been quite a bit of doubt." He said, however, that the .24 reading was sufficient evidence that the driver was under the influence, and imposed a fine of $100.

Delivers German Answer To Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — West German Ambassador Hans Kroil delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office today Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's answer to a proposal for direct West German-Soviet talks. "It does not slam the door," Kroil said, but he would not elaborate.

A Soviet memorandum last December requested the direct talks to settle some outstanding questions between the two countries and said such talks would be in West Germany's "national interests." The Soviet note was seen as an effort to lure West Germany away from its Western Allies.

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Russians have cabled congratulations to Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. The Russians are Maj. Yuri A. Jaganin and Maj. Gherman S. Titov, who orbited the earth last year.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
33 Hogs In Kehr Herd, Valued At $360, Poisoned: With 23 hogs dead and 10 others dying in his herd of 41 hogs, Herbert W. Kehr, Biglerville R. 1, turned to state police here Monday afternoon in an effort to determine how poison was administered to the animals.

Corporal John P. Herman began an investigation today.

Dr. A. A. Martin, Emmittsburg veterinarian, was called to the Kehr farm in Straban township last Friday and found 33 of the hogs afflicted. Several already were dead and the veterinarian conducted post mortem examinations of four of the carcasses. He found the stomach linings of all of the animals had been attacked by some acid or caustic substance.

$75,000 For Battle Fete: Governor Earle, in his budget message today, recommended that $75,000 be provided for use at the 75th Gettysburg battle anniversary and reunion of the Blue and Gray here next year.

He said: For necessary expenses incident to the celebration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, an event of great historic importance, I recommend the sum of $75,000.

Bank Stock Is Given Church: A bequest of 70 shares of stock of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of New Oxford to the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church is included among other provisions of the will of Mrs. Mary Irwin Weaver, late of Fairfield, entered to probate Tuesday afternoon at the office of the register and recorder at the court house.

The dividends from the stock are to be used to help pay the salary of the church pastor, the will provides.

Building Program Cost In Adams County Put At $300,000: A wide-spread building program to be undertaken in Adams county during the spring months or now actually underway is revealed in a general survey which fixes the approximate cost of the construction work at a figure approaching $300,000.

School districts, private business concerns, tourist camp proprietors and homemakers with plans for new dwelling places are included in the list of builders.

Tree Disrupts Current Here: Electric current was cut off for about a half hour Thursday afternoon in the central part of the town when line trouble developed near CCC camp No. 2. About one-half of the town was without current until Metropolitan Edison company workmen repaired the trouble and the current was turned on again at the substation east of here along the Lincoln highway.

Benjamin Parvin, local manager for the utility company, said that workmen found that a tree top, swayed in the wind, had rubbed against the service line leading to the CCC camp and caused a short circuit.

Plan Changes In Residences: James R. McConaghe and family will move today from 42 East Lincoln avenue to the former Charles W. Stock property, West Broadway.

Mrs. Anna Plank will move from Carlisle street into her home, 42 East Lincoln avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Plank, Jr., Hotel Gettysburg, will make their home with Mrs. Plank.

Today's Talk

NOT OF IT
There is hardly a day but what we all come in contact with that which is anything but uplifting, clean and fragrant.

It isn't the task of the strong man or woman to avoid danger or sordidness or unpleasantness. In traveling the course of life all its roads are not smoothly paved. It is the test of a man or woman to travel through life and come in contact with that which is unclean and yet not become a part of it!

The white lily that springs up from the mud is not a part of the mud hole. It is something above and higher and separate.

We carry heaven in our heart. And sometimes we have to go right through an earthly hell in order to reach the other side.

Beauty and cleanliness of mind and holiness of heart are belongings that go only with heroic people — people who understand and who are not afraid.

You can't sidestep the unpleasant in this world because the world is made up of many elements and circumstances may force you at times to enter the black pit. But just remember that you are not of the pit. There is always great fragrance in the air somewhere. Hunt that air!

Have style and stick to it. There is much in the phrase: "Be yourself." What a cheap thing to imagine that you are someone else.

Jesus associated with publicans and sinners — but He was not one of them. He came — in His own words — to "seek and to save."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Occupation." Protected, 1962, by The George Matthews Adams Service.

Just Folks
THE VANISHED JOYS
It's only in your dreamin' that the years of long ago
Retain their charm an' sweetness an' the joy you used to know.
It's only in the smoke clouds that are floatin' round your head
That you ever see the beauty of the lanes you used to tread.
You can't go back an' claim it once you've turned an' journeyed on,
For there's always something missin' that you sigh to look upon.

The little village isn't what you pictured in your dreams,
And strangers' boys are fishing in your place beside the stream;
And something, too, is missing from the lanes you used to tread,
And you find the friends you're seekin' in the meadow of the dead.

There are youngsters gayly rompin' where you often used to play,
But they're different from the boys of yesterday.

The old familiar swimmin' hole has lost the touch of charm
That your dreamin' seemed to picture, an' there's somethin' 'bout the farm
With its hollyhocks an' roses that seems whisperin' to you
That it misses mother's gentle hands that years ago it knew;
Oh, it's only in your dreamin' that the joys of youth remain,
For always when you wander back the search for 'em is vain.

Toys In Child Therapy Is Method For Understanding

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — When one of your young hopefuls starts beating another over the head with a toy, you probably think it's just a typical childish row.

You separate the combatants, divert their attention and, when you can, escape. To a psychotherapist, such aggressive action by his small patients may be fraught with subconscious meaning: Sibling rivalry, feelings of rejection, apprehension.

This doesn't mean a mother should whip out pen and pad and sprint to an observer's post when she sees a toy-laden child advance wrathfully upon another. She is not a trained analyst. But therapists for some years have been using toys successfully in work with a single disturbed child. Now, at the Long Island Consultation Center at Forest Hills, N. Y., toys are being used with groups of children.

LEARNS TO RELATE
Dr. Wilfred Quayman, director of training and staff development, says: "Children can't verbalize fears like adults. So a child uses symbolic ways."

A child's choice of toy, what he does with it and by how he relates it to the other children in his play give the therapist clues to his problem. "And in group sessions he learns to relate in a more socially useful way to his peers," says Dr. Quayman.

How are toys used? The very young who have toilet training difficulties gravitate to water guns, dolls that wet, clay, finger painting.

The frightened phobic or fearful child, with painting, make-believe play or hand puppets in which he identifies with the figure, can tell you what's bothering him.

CHILD ENCOURAGED
Or perhaps the youngsters are playing with a family of dolls. One might brusquely throw down the father doll. He doesn't say anything, but it's pretty clear something is wrong with his relationship with his father.

For therapy, the inhibited, withdrawn child is encouraged to play with tops that develop confidence and aggressiveness, such as guns and athletic equipment. The overactive child who can't sit still or concentrate is given quiet games interspersed with active games. Gradually the quiet games take over. The aim is to increase the attention span and tolerance of frustration.

World War II provided Dee's first opportunity at a real man's job. She supervised pumping and purifying of water at the Navy's Opa-Locka air station on Miami's suburbs.

After the war Dee designed and supervised construction of several buildings, tried landscaping and gave land development a whirl.

BACK IN OFFICE
Then Mrs. Chastain found herself in an office job again, though with a construction company. Soon, however, she persuaded her employer to assign her to the field as a timekeeper on a construction job.

In a few weeks Dee was a member of the construction crew. Last November, after two years with the firm, Dee became superintendent of the canal project supervising a 20-man crew.

Clad in slacks and boots, Dee is on the job seven days a week keeping close watch on all phases of the job.

Mrs. Chastain says she has no trouble running a crew of burly construction workers. "I give no orders. I just ask the men to do the work, explain what I want them to do and answer any questions they might have," she says.

HAVE MORE RESPECT
"I never ask a man to do anything unless I can do it myself," the former Douglas, Ga., woman says. (She can operate a dump truck or a bulldozer.) "After they find out that I know what I'm doing, they have more respect for me."

The men probably wouldn't admit it, but they likely have even more respect for Dee's ability in a more feminine line. Occasionally on Sunday she cooks up a pan of Southern fried chicken for her crew.

Indians To Count On Trades In Pennant Bid, Says McGaha

(19th in a series of major league baseball team prospects, written under the managers' bylines)

CLEVELAND INDIANS
By MEL MCGAHA
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A few of the deals we made this winter seem to have strengthened us a lot, so I'm really looking forward to my first season as a big league manager.

The key men we obtained were Dick Donovan, Gene Green, Jerry Kindall and Harry Chiti. Donovan is the experienced right-handed pitcher we needed after Jim Grant was called into the service. We're counting on Green to play first base even though he played only as a catcher and outfielder for Washington last season.

Kindall, whom we got from the Cubs, is a good second baseman with strong hands and a good throwing arm. Chiti, an experienced catcher, will back up Johnny Romano.

NECESSARY MOVES
We had to part with Jimmy Piersall and Johnny Temple to get Donovan, Green and Chiti, but these were necessary moves.

Our infield looks particularly strong with Vic Power at first base, Kindall at second, Woodie Held at short and Bubba Phillips at third.

We're set in two outfield spots with Willie Kirkland in right field and Tito Francona in left. Piersall is going to be a hard man to replace, but we believe we have an exceptional rookie in Ty Cline. This kid hit .290 in the Pacific Coast League and we think he can do better.

GOOD DEFENSIVELY
We have a couple of fine defensive utility infielders, Mike DeLa Hoz and Ken Aspromonte and now that Chiti is our No. 2 catcher, our bench is a lot stronger.

I'm not planning to do much platooning. The ideal situation in baseball is to have men at each position who are strong defensively and offensively. In this respect, we are much better off than we were last season.

MANUAL ARTS TEACHER IS MOTHER OF 3

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — If anybody comes looking for one of the manual training teachers in Worcester's Bancroft School, likely as not he'll be told, "She's out running a power saw, or a lathe."

The newly appointed assistant to the head of the manual arts department is an attractive redhead, Mrs. Warren D. Arnold Jr., mother of three teen-age girls. Her school job includes instructing some 60 boys and girls from third to eighth grade level. Her daughters are students in the upper school at this private, co-educational school.

How did Mrs. Arnold ever get into manual arts teaching? "I was the only girl and I had two brothers. So I had typical tomboy interests," she explains. "We had a little herpetology (reptiles-amphibians) museum in our Brookline home. And I began cleaning cages and building them."

OTHER EXPERIENCE
From that she went on to teach crafts at a Maine summer camp. And she learned to ride and shoot as well as a boy. Other summers she visited her grandfather's ranch in Arizona and — with her brothers — hunted rattlesnakes.

She graduated from a finishing school and enrolled at Smith College as a zoology major, but left after two years to marry.

Her husband, now a stockbroker came home from World War II with a newly developed interest in manual arts and now the whole family has fun building things: like tables, bookcases, a sailboat. The family hobby began in a small way — with pieces of wood retrieved from a dump, and wood in fruit boxes it continued into cabinetmaking, including fine furniture reproductions.

The family members work, camp, sail, ski and fish together. Mrs. Arnold hauled in a 92-pound tuna last year off Cape Cod.

"I do womanly things, too," explains the slender, vivacious Mrs. Arnold. "I can cook, sew and knit."

This school year, under the instruction of department head Richard S. Lane and Mrs. Arnold, students in the Bancroft school's shop will turn out projects ranging from bird houses to bookcases, and nut bowls to lazy susans. And these will be a start toward more ambitious projects.

HOUK KNOWS 3 NUMBERS
NEW YORK (AP) — When asked the uniform number of rookie outfielder Jack Reed, Manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees said: "I don't know, but I know some other numbers. Mantle is seven, Berra is eight and Maris nine."

Reed replaced Bob Cerv as a World Series eligible when the latter underwent a knee operation just before the classic began.

committee, however, on the ground it was overloaded with representatives of the West. The committee did not hold an organizational meeting until May 6, 1959, and it was then boycotted by the three Soviet bloc members as well as by India and the United Arab Republic.

In late 1958 the United States and the Soviet Union finally agreed on a new 24-member committee to be composed of 12 Western, 7 Communist and 5 neutral nations.

The Soviets continued to boycott the committee, however, until its life was about to expire last November. The Soviets had insisted on the "troika" system — or equal representation of Communist, Western and neutral nations.

COMMITTEE APPROVAL
Finally, after nearly two years, the committee met last Nov. 27 and heard the outline of a proposed program by the U.S. delegate.

The Political Committee of the assembly on Dec. 11 approved a program proposed by the 24 members of the space committee.

This included the enlargement of the committee to 28 to include Outer Mongolia and three African nations, Chad, Morocco and Sierra Leone. Western sources said majority rule will prevail in the committee and there will be no veto.

FREE OUTER SPACE
The resolution outlined these principles: Outer space and celestial bodies shall be regarded as free for exploration and use by all nations in conformity with international law and are not subject to national appropriation. International Law including the U.N. charter, shall apply to outer space and celestial bodies.

Outer space launching projects will be registered with the U.N. space committee, and Emphasis in international cooperation will be given to weather forecasting and establishment of worldwide communications systems.

The committee is to meet no later than March 31 to get the international program in operation.

172 STUDENTS
"The contest aims to create and sustain interest in mathematics among students of our secondary schools," Dr. Moorhead said. "Supplementing the important regular classroom work, it attempts to broaden and deepen basic mathematical concepts."

"Expanding scientific and social horizons point up the urgent need for personnel trained on several levels in pure and applied mathematics. The contest examination suggests to the secondary student some of the fascination and imagination in mathematical study, a suggestion we hope is strong enough to make continued work in mathematics and its allied fields in college irresistible," Prof. Moorhead explained.

Career brochures in mathematics are being offered each contestant.

Warriors Drop Final To Cannors 43-42 As Sanni Sinks Fouls At Finish

A pair of foul shots by Bill Sanni in the last five seconds of play gave the Biglerville High School cagers a thrilling 43-42 decision over the Gettysburg High Warriors here Tuesday evening in the final game of the season for Coach George Forney's clan as well as the final in the South Penn League which ends its long history this year.

The game was close throughout with most of the thrills being packed into the last period when the lead changed hands 10 times as the scoring increased appreciably after three periods of comparatively low scoring.

The defeat gave the Warriors their darkest season in 30 years. They lost their last 14 straight for an overall mark of 1-16. Back in 1932 Gettysburg won one while losing 18.

Biglerville is now 7-11 overall with a nonleague game remaining with Boiling Springs at Biglerville next Monday, the game having originally been scheduled for next Tuesday.

Gettysburg held the lead throughout the first quarter after opening goals by Tom Duane and Dick Crist. At the end of the quarter it was 11-9.

GET EARLY LEAD

Four straight goals, two by Sanni and one each by Rodney Guise and Bob Garretson, sent the Cannors to the front 17-11 after 2:30 of the second period. Bernie Thrush's team held onto a slight lead the rest of the half and at intermission was on top 23-20.

Defensive play marked the third period and finally Jim McClellan landed a jump shot to put the Warriors ahead 26-25 with 3:17 left. Sanni intercepted a pass and raced for a Canner goal and then Crist and Duane converted fouls into the last quarter.

LEAD SEE-SAWS

A pair of goals by Duane and one by Bob Crandall enabled the Warriors to lead 34-30 after three minutes of the last period. Phil Pitzer looped a lay-up and Sanni a side shot to knot the count with Pitzer adding a foul as the Cannors moved ahead 35-34. Neither team could secure more than a one-point lead the rest of the way as the lead switched back and forth.

With 58 seconds left Guise put Biglerville ahead 41-40. Crist, on a one-and-one situation, converted both tries as the Warriors led 42-41 with just 26 seconds remaining. Twenty-one seconds later Sanni, in a similar role, calmly netted both charity heaves to give his team the verdict.

Duane and Crist wished 13 and 10 points to lead Gettysburg. Pitzer topped the Cannors with 18 and Sanni added 15.

GHS SCRUBS WIN

The Gettysburg reserves salvaged part of the program by taking a 29-25 triumph in the preliminary for their sixth victory in 16 games. Jim Newman led the well-balanced warrior offense with nine points. The Cannors were sparked by Leroy Wetzel with 10.

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—One hundred and fifty teams compete today in a $30,000 pro-amateur golf tourney—a preliminary to the Greater New Orleans Open.

Stan Thrush of Mission, Kan., fired a 2-under-par 70 Tuesday to lead qualifiers for 78 vacant posts in the $30,000 open which gets under way Thursday.

Second place in the qualifying round went to Harold Henning, Johannesburg, South Africa, and Dan Sikes, Jacksonville, Fla., who came in with 71s for the 6,662-yard City Park course.

Joe Brown Favored In Title Match
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Joe Brown is favored to retain his lightweight boxing title when he meets Carlos Ortiz here Saturday. But the odds are dropping.

One local oddsmaker, Jimmy Snyder, quoted the 35-year-old champion as an 8-5 favorite Tuesday. By fight time, Snyder said, the price probably will be down to 7-5. It was 9-5 Monday.

Ortiz, 25, has looked formidable in his workouts. The challenger, a Puerto Rican fighting out of New York, has worked himself down to the 135-pound limit. The champion from Houston, making his 17th title defense, is still a little above the limit.

Coed Cagers Win To Stay Unbeaten
The undefeated Gettysburg College girls added their fifth straight basketball victory here Tuesday afternoon by defeating Millersville 55-25 as Lynn Brown and Peg Steely dropped through 21 and 15 points.

Bermudian and Greencastle clinched the Adams and Franklin Division titles, respectively, of the Adams-Franklin League by capturing victories Tuesday evening.

They will meet for the overall league title next Monday at 8 p.m. on the Scotland School floor.

Coach Glen Gruver's Bermudian outfit took a 25-15 margin at the end of the first period and led the remainder of the way in topping Fannett-Metal 67-52 on the latter's floor.

Craig Hoke, the league's leading scorer, and Tom Hardy were the big guns for Bermudian with 25 and 24 points, respectively. J. Clayton and A. Clayton swished 14 and 12 for the Tigers.

Greencastle edged Scotland 71-66 on the Blue Devils' floor for its 17th straight win to wrap up the Franklin honors.

With 36 seconds of play remaining Bob Good sank a pair of foul shots to clinch a 53-50 decision for St. Thomas over invading New Oxford. The Colonials held a 27-21 lead at half time but the Saints knotted the count at 38-38 after three periods and forged a 51-50 advantage with but a minute of play remaining.

Good topped all scorers with 22 points while Dave Meckley rimmed 12 to be high man for the Colonials.

LOSE IN OVERTIME
Despite holding a 75-26 advantage on rebounding, the Littlestown High outfit dropped an extra period 45-43 verdict at Littlestown. The Thunderbolts grabbed a 14-10 lead in the opening frame, fell behind 23-20 at half time and then fought back to a 31-31 deadlock at the end of the third quarter. Each team rimmed nine points in the fourth frame to send the game into overtime.

Both teams connected from the field 17 times, Littlestown in 45 tries and Quincy in 56. Fred Snyder paced the Bolts with 21 points while Downin topped the Spartans with 14.

Fairfield made a strong bid for its second victory before losing 45-44 to James Buchanan on the latter's floor.

NCAA Tourney To Open On March 12
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The first round of NCAA basketball tournament play is set for the University of Pennsylvania Palestra March 12 but Villanova will have to wait until March 3 to learn who its opponent will be.

Villanova Tuesday drew the Southern Conference representative as its opponent for the triple-header in the Palestra.

The Southern Conference is one of the two leagues which determines its representative by a tournament after the regular season is over. This tournament will be held March 1-3 at Richmond, Va., with West Virginia and Virginia Tech early favorites.

Says Fiberglass, Bamboo About Same

NEW YORK (A)—There's not much difference between the new type fiber glass poles and the old-fashioned bamboo poles, according to a scientific test made by a research laboratory.

Because of the controversy over the fiber glass pole used by John Uelses in becoming the first 16-foot pole vaulter in history, Sports Illustrated asked the Johns-Manville research laboratory to test fiber glass, bamboo, steel, and aluminum poles for flexibility and catapulting qualities.

The test showed the fiber glass pole closely approximates the performance of the bamboo pole, said the weekly magazine in an article in its latest issue.

According to the tests, the most resilient pole was the bamboo followed by fiber glass, aluminum and steel.

GUBNER WORKS PSYCHOLOGY ON P. O'BRIEN

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP)—If Parry O'Brien, the Los Angeles banker, shows up to defend his national AAU shotput championship Saturday night, he's in for a dose of his own medicine—the old "psych" routine.

Gary Gubner, 19, the New York University sophomore who has spent the last three weeks in an assault on the indoor record and pushed it to a mighty 64-11 1/4 last Friday, says he isn't afraid of O'Brien.

"I don't think in his present condition he is capable of throwing 64 feet," said Gubner today as he flexed his muscles for the Metropolitan Intercollegiate championships, his last major warmup before the Nationals. "As for me, I'm out to make at least 65 feet."

WELL-PLACED SNEERS
This is a page from the O'Brien book. Through the years he ruled the shotput world, O'Brien always worked on his rivals by a few well-placed sneers at their chances during the meeting, he would studiously avoid watching them, as though their efforts were of no consequence.

Two weeks ago, O'Brien's plane was late and he arrived at the Millrose Games just after Gubner smashed Parry's indoor record of 63-11 1/4. Last week, O'Brien had a sore finger and scratched from the New York A.C. meet. He has won the national title the last nine years.

Gubner defeated O'Brien in their only meeting this year in the Los Angeles Times meet with a 63-8 job. O'Brien's best was 59-7 1/2.

League Expulsion Fought By Pipers
CLEVELAND (AP)—With a fight against expulsion from the league behind them, the Cleveland Pipers prepared today to resume battle on the American Basketball League courts.

League headquarters in Chicago notified George Steinbrenner, Pipers president, Tuesday night that league owners had voted 5-1 to allow the Pipers to continue in the league.

Only George McKeon, president of the San Francisco Saints, voted against the Pipers. Steinbrenner was told, Charges, which had been initiated by McKeon, were dropped. One charge was that Cleveland refused to honor playings dates in San Francisco and Honolulu.

The Pittsburgh Rens Eastern Division leaders, reached the 500 mark a 13-13 by beating the Hawaii Chiefs 104-90 in one of three league games Tuesday night. In the others, the Kansas City Steers, Western Division leaders, whipped the New York Tapers 114-106 and the San Francisco Saints beat Chicago 119-116.

NINE BERTHS REMAIN OPEN IN TOURNEYS

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Nine berths remain to be filled in the two major college basketball tournaments after five more prize teams were picked off Tuesday.

Four at-large clubs were named to the NCAA championship whirl, leaving two to go, and St. John's of New York (15-4) made the field for the 25th National Invitation Tourney, leaving seven to be picked for that 12-team competition.

Air Force (13-4), Seattle (14-8), New York University (13-3) and Butler (20-5) were chosen for the NCAA, the postseason classic that decides the national title. They join Oregon State, Villanova, Detroit and Creighton as independents in the 25-member field that also will include representatives from 15 conferences.

REJECT BID
St. John's turned down a bid to the NCAA to make its 16th appearance in the NIT, at New York's Madison Square Garden, March 15-24. The Redmen, who have won three NIT crowns in the past, enter a field that also includes Loyola of Chicago, Duquesne, Houston and defending champion Providence.

Butler celebrated its first invitation to the NCAA Tuesday night by closing out its regular season with an 87-86 victory over Ball State. NIT-bound Houston won its 19th in 24 starts, rolling over Tulsa 90-71.

TWO TEAMS TIED
The Southwest Conference race unscrambled a bit, leaving only two teams tied at the top. Texas Tech beat Texas Christian 74-66 and Southern Methodist downed Texas 69-64, while Rice shaded Texas

NETWORKS DO FINE JOB ON ASTRONAUT

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—From spinning launching to folksy wind-up, the three major television networks concentrated Tuesday on the history-making flight of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. The viewer who watched from dawn's early light until dusk, had an exciting if exhausting experience.

The great moments of the day were, of course, the takeoff and landing of the capsule. Unfortunately, after the rocket moved off its pad with a great burst of smoke and flame, there wasn't much the cameras could do in actually covering the flight. But through the five long hours when the capsule was hurtling around the world, TV teams of the three networks—ABC, CBS and NBC—kept the audience glued to their sets.

SUPPLEMENTED REPORTS

They supplemented the oral reports from the spaceman himself and Cape Canaveral headquarters with interviews and explanations. They hopped around the country to tracking stations where we heard Col. Glenn's heartbeat and saw a machine drawing a chart of his breathing. We saw the exterior of his home and the home of his parents.

The basic coverage was a pooled network effort, and it was a fine, smooth job. When the launching was held up for a few minutes by a broken nut on the capsule hatch, the cameras were right there with a closeup of the men making repairs.

All through the day, the viewer in his living room felt as if he were in an orchestra seat, except for the landing, when voice reports still kept us fully informed.

NEWS SPECIALS

The evening news programs were almost entirely devoted to the space shoot. CBS' Douglas Edwards found time for only one non-Glenn item. Both CBS and NBC bumped regular evening entertainment programs to present news specials on the big event. But this reporter, after a TV vigil of over 10 hours, missed them. Tired eyes.

It was a great day for television and one of which it can be proud.

CBS will drop its morning game show, "Your Surprise Package," next Friday, and next Monday will resume with a soap opera, "The Clear Horizon," which had its original premiere in July 1960. Recommended tonight: Perry

DOCTORS HAVE PROBLEMS IN TIME OF BLAST

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Medical facilities in the event of atomic attack and new studies on hardening of the arteries figure in the medical news.

ATOMIC ATTACK

If atomic attack ever is made on America, many exposed victims in hot fallout areas probably would be pretty much on their own until the radiation subsided to safe levels.

A North Carolina physician queried the American Medical Association on the ethical duties of physicians under such circumstances, saying: "I am not sure I would be capable, even if I had an adequate shelter, of turning down requests for treatment."

An AMA consultant replied: "Civil defense authorities agree that the physician is in the same category as everyone else regarding shelter protection from radioactive fallout. It would be short sighted for a physician to provide medical services to casualties in a hot area that would in a short time incapacitate him to fulfill subsequent medical responsibilities. While this does not appear to be a question of ethics, the physician should recognize that all health services be conserved to provide maximum recovery from such a disaster."

HARDENED ARTERIES

Hardening of the arteries is a major cause of heart attacks in the United States and a recent study in New Orleans indicates it can have a good start in boys by the time they are 10.

Heart researchers studied the coronary arteries of 548 persons who died at various ages from various causes. Their report was carried in the American Journal of Pathology.

It showed that between the ages of 10 and 39, white males have approximately three times as much atherosclerotic involvement—plugging of the artery channel—as white females. The difference decreases after age 40. No such clear-cut difference exists between the sexes among Negroes because Negro women do not seem to share the immunity of young and middle-aged white women.

After age 50, the study indicated, differences between all four groups disappear.

Under the old contract, which expired Feb. 1, drivers and repairmen were paid $2.57 an hour, mechanics $2.87 and garagemen $2.21 to $2.37.

DEB REYNOLDS WILL CONTINUE MOVIE CAREER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

There will be no career slowdown for Debbie Reynolds, expecting a baby in September. In fact, she signed on to play a 60-year-old in the final sequence of "How the West Was Won."

She had already done two sequences in the episodic super-Western and wasn't wild to do another (She had been promised four weeks on the film; it spread to six months). When the studio bosses put the film together, they decided a finale was needed. She agreed to serve—her last act after 14 years under contract to MGM.

Before the 10-day stint, she goes to New York to help husband Harry Karl open 10 shoe stores. After winning the West, she goes to Paramount to make "My Six Loves" under Gower Champion's direction.

Horst Buchholz returned to London to finish "Nine Days to Rama," in which he plays Ghandi's murderer. Before leaving, he reported that his newborn son will have triple citizenship until 21—German for his father, French for his mother, American for his place of birth.

Why was he born here? "Because I like America," said Horst.

ed, differences between all four groups disappear.

KENNEDY'S WATCH FLIGHT

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy watched the launching of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit Tuesday and was described as very pleased that the first phase of the flight had gone off very successfully.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy paid close attention. The President, with Mrs. Kennedy at his side, began watching the launching preliminaries at 7:15 a.m., on a television set in his bedroom. Kennedy continued to watch in his bedroom until 8:50 a.m.

He then went to the small dining room on the first floor of the White House to join Democratic congressional leaders who were there for their usual Tuesday morning breakfast-conference.

A small portable set was kept on picture, with the sound turned down, while Kennedy conferred with the legislative leaders.

Fifteen minutes before the blastoff, a direct telephone line was opened to Cape Canaveral, Fla. First Salinger talked with O. B. Lloyd, information officer of the National Aeronautics and Space Agency, who was at Cape Canaveral headquarters.

The President took over the phone about three minutes before the launching. Lloyd filled in Kennedy on some of the details. At one point, Kennedy heard Glenn's voice over the phone but Salinger said the President did not speak with Glenn.

MAY SEEK TO BLOCK WAGE ACT OPERATION

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania Municipal Authorities Association is polling its Board of Executives to determine whether to seek an injunction against the new Pennsylvania Prevailing Wage Act.

A spokesman for the association confirmed the action Tuesday after it was reported from Williamsport that the city's sanitary authority had raised a protest against the law.

The spokesman said the poll was started because of complaints the organization had received from its members in regard to costs of public works projects under the law. He expected the results to be compiled by the end of the week.

WOULD RAISE COSTS

As with the Williamsport complaint, the spokesman said, the protestants contend the law will raise such costs by 15 to 50 per cent.

The law, enacted during the 1961 legislative session, requires that wages paid private laborers on public works projects be equal to the prevailing wage rate of the locale.

This rate is to be established by the State Labor and Industry Department after a survey of the area in question.

The Williamsport complaint, raised Tuesday, was the first "complaint of costs" the department had heard of since the act took effect Feb. 1, a department spokesman said.

MRS. LUTHER WETZEL

ORRTANNA — The Young Adults' Class of the Mt. Carmel EUB Sunday School met in the church hall for its monthly meeting on Thursday evening with six members present and one guest. Mrs. Robert Shindedecker was the leader and opened the meeting with prayer.

The scripture was read by Robert Shindedecker. Mrs. Shindedecker completed Chapter 1 of the class study book entitled "Facing Frontiers" and the chapter "Those Who Went Before." Several members of the class took part in the discussion and a hymn book known as the Otterbein Hymnal was exhibited by the teacher, Mrs. Claire Rebert. Her father, Sanford M. Metz, had bought and presented the book to his wife, Flora Metz, in 1900 with her autograph on the first leaf of the book. It was stated that several of those hymnals were

Wants Training For Red Pilots To End

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Texas Republicans have introduced resolutions in Congress calling for an end to the training in this country of pilots and other military personnel from Communist countries.

The resolutions were offered Monday by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., and Rep. Bruce Alger, R-Tex.

About the same time scores of persons, many from Texas, came to Washington to protest the training of Yugoslav pilots at Perrin Air Force Base, Tex., and elsewhere in this country. The United States has sold jet planes to Yugoslavia and is training pilots to fly them.

Alger said he had received protesting petitions signed by nearly 10,000 Dallas County residents.

still in the Mt. Carmel Church and several older members possessed some others.

The work of Philip William Otterbein, Jacob Albright and Martin Boehmer was further discussed. After the hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have," Mrs. Shindedecker turned the meeting over to the president, Cloyd Spence, for the business session.

Mrs. Clyde Metz read the minutes. It was voted to contact a business firm to develop a financial project within the class. Plans were also discussed relative to breakfast for the "sunrise service" to be held at Easter. Committees will be announced later.

The meeting closed with the "Lord's Prayer." The next meeting will be held March 8 with the president, Cloyd Spence, as leader and Mrs. Robert Shindedecker, hostess. A social hour followed with refreshments served by the teacher, Mrs. Rebert.

Miss Marie Wetzel, Bromall, Pa., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wetzel.

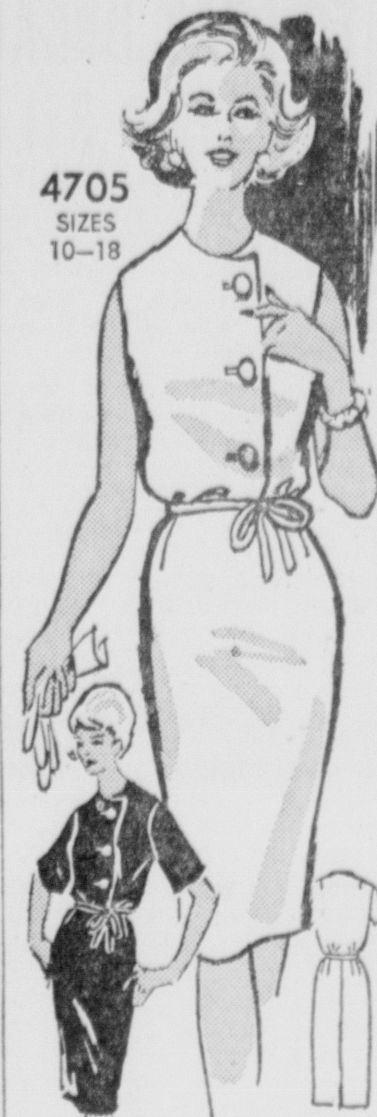

A/3C Harman L. Spence returned to Willow Grove, near Philadelphia, after spending the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spence.

Recent guests of Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Gotwalt were Mrs. Gotwalt's mother, Mrs. Lloyd Liek, York, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Liek, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Gotwalt, and their children, Geoffrey, Terry, Rodney and Tina, of Hellam, York County.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wentz and son, Stephen, Hanover, spent Sunday with Mrs. Wentz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Chapman.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG
The Associated Press

QUESTION: The hardwood floor in our dining room was waxed a couple of years ago and hasn't been done since. We'd like to redo it. Can you tell us how to clean off the old wax, which has turned slightly yellow, and what kind of wax to use to get the best result?

ANSWER: The fact that the old wax turned yellow indicates that it may have been one of the synthetic resin waxes, which are fine for vinyl and most types of resilient flooring but not recommended for wood. To remove the old wax, get a wax remover from your hardware dealer, explaining to him that it's for a wooden floor.

In getting a new wax to redo the floor, be sure to select one of the good quality buffing waxes rather than the self-polishing type. Most self-polishing waxes have a water base — and water tends to cause the surface grain of wood to rise and swell. The self-polishing waxes are excellent for vinyl, asphalt tile and linoleum. The buffing waxes are better for wood and cork. These waxes are known as solvent waxes.

QUESTION: I have a wife and seven children. I have lectured them many times about not replacing a 15-amp fuse with one of higher amperage. I'd like you to do two things for me. Explain to my family the danger of using a fuse too large. And refresh my memory. Didn't I read somewhere about a fuse which will prevent them making this mistake?

ANSWER: A fuse acts as the weakest link in the electrical system. When something goes wrong with the line, such as a short circuit or an overload, the fuse blows and your line becomes dead. If it were not for the fuse, the wires would become too hot, burn through the insulation and start a fire. When you put in a fuse too large for that particular line, it doesn't blow when it is supposed to and therefore loses its value.

As for the second question, ask your hardware or electrical dealer for Type-S fuses with special adapters. The adapters are installed in the fuse box and the Type-S plugs are screwed into the adapters. Each size fuse has a different thread, so that it is impossible to screw in the wrong-size fuse.

New building materials have been getting so much attention lately that some of us are inclined to forget that wood continues to be the number one home-building product.

Since durability is so often associated with the new materials, it might be well to point out that many species of wood also lay claim to long life. In the top category of these durable kinds of lumber is redwood, which grows in such profusion in California.

A prime example of redwood's ability to remain intact for a long period occurred recently in that state. A redwood building that had been built on the campus at Whittier College back in 1909 was moved to another site, there to be remodeled and expanded. The original intention had been to tear down the 52-year-old building, but a thorough examination disclosed that the wood was as sound as when it was built. The decision to move the structure resulted in large savings.

NATURAL SUBSTANCES

Redwood's durability is due to certain natural substances in the red heartwood. The creamy-colored sapwood is as subject to decay or insect attack as that of any other species. For this reason, all-heart grades have been set up so that the consumer will have no trouble purchasing what he wants.

Thus, the advice: If the redwood is to be used outdoors or any other place where durability is a factor, be sure you get heartwood, which varies in color from cherry to a dark mahogany tone. The grades containing sapwood, which is almost white, are more economical.

The contrast of creamy sapwood and rich red heartwood makes striking interior paneling.

MOST DECAY RESISTANT

The Forest Products Laboratory of the United States Agriculture Department lists redwood in the "most decay-resistant" class, those few species which are "durable even when used under conditions that favor decay." Redwood also is one of the few American woods known to be naturally termite-resistant. It is most important commercially because of the greater proportion

ORIOLES GIVEN CALISTHENICS; 'LOOSENING UP'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Orioles' battery-men reported to Manager Billy Hitchcock in their Miami camp today and their worst suspicions were confirmed.

Hitchcock announced that he was setting up organized calisthenics for the club. They will be a daily routine right up until the first exhibition game on March 10.

The players had heard talk of Hitchcock's idea, but they hoped he would change his mind. He wasted no time in giving the 21 pitchers, 6 catchers, plus a couple of stray outfielders and an infielder the bad news.

Hitchcock said his plan was not as bad as it sounds. In fact, he said he would prefer to call them "loosening up exercises."

MARIS WAR RAGES

The tug of war with Roger Maris, the New York Yankees' home run king and American League Most Valuable Player, continued with neither side showing any inclination to retreat.

Maris is asking $75,000 and the Yanks are offering $60,000, a $20,000 raise.

"We met for about 20 minutes yesterday," said General Manager Roy Hamey. "We're about as far apart as ever."

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Orioles had better news on the signing front. The Cards signed four players including first baseman Bill White, infielder Alex Grammas, catcher Jimmie Schaffer and pitcher John Anderson. Seven Redbirds remain unsigned.

The Orioles signed centerfielder Jackie Brandt, who had been threatening to hold out, for $20,000 and bonus rookie second baseman Willard Oplinger. Four Baltimore players remain unsigned.

ARENDSVILLE FIREMEN WILL HOLD DINNER

Final plans for the annual Arendtsville Fire Company fundraising turkey and oyster dinner were made at a meeting Tuesday evening in the fire hall. President Wayne Criswell presided.

The dinner will be held Saturday evening, March 10, from 4 to 8 o'clock. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 65 cents for children. There is no charge for children under four years of age.

The club voted to sell small fire extinguishers to business establishments in the community and approved the purchase of a $40 tape recorder to monitor all quick-call calls to the company.

It was decided to pay $2 to the Adams County Quick Call and join the affiliation.

Elmer L. Moore was accepted as a new member. Bills totaling $468 were approved for payment leaving a balance of $154 in the treasury.

It was announced that public card parties will be held in the fire hall March 2 and 16. Elliott Schlosser was appointed to a committee to investigate the possibility of holding a record hop in the near future.

Payment of an accident policy premium from the relief fund was approved. It was announced the company received $78 from the borough last year, the amount being based on the amount of fire insurance in Arendtsville.

Fifteen members attended.

More Snow Hits Pennsylvania

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An eastward-moving storm system brought snow today to Pennsylvania.

Snow began falling in southwestern sections of the state after dawn. It was expected to spread over most of Pennsylvania during the day.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast accumulations of two to eight inches, with maximum depths in mountain areas.

Forecasters said the snow would change to rain in southern parts of the state as temperatures rose above freezing. Some sleet and freezing rain also was expected in these regions.

It began snowing in the Philadelphia area shortly after 9 a.m. The weather bureau said the snow would continue through the afternoon and evening, but had no immediate prediction on the eventual depth.

Travels 3,208 Miles To Make Roll Call

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Once a month 1st Lt. Paris Eugene Smith travels 3,208 miles round-trip from Arizona just to make roll call in the Tennessee National Guard. It takes a five-day weekend—from Thursday through Monday.

Smith left his job at Sewanee, Tenn., to enroll in the American Institute for Foreign Trade at Phoenix. But the Arizona fighter unit had no opening for Smith—a navigator—and Tennessee still needed him.

So now Smith catches a commercial flight from Phoenix to Yuma on Thursday, hops a regularly scheduled Air Force flight from there to Smyrna, Tenn., the next day, and a fellow navigator provides a lift to Berry Field at Nashville where the two answer roll call at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Wonder and Ronald Christian Jensen, Hanover.

The trio is charged with setting afire a barn and house owned by Ralph Huffacker, Hanover, near White Hall on the "back road to Hanover" from Littlestown. The fire occurred early on the morning of November 9.

BAIL REVOKED

Littlestown Fire Chief Richard Stuller told of the Alpha firemen being called to the blaze. Henry Waltman of the Littlestown fire department testified to the arrival of the firemen at the scene.

At that time the barn was "completely on fire." The fire truck in which Waltman was seated stopped in back of another fire truck. Waltman said he had been there a few minutes when he glanced toward the house about 75 yards from the barn and saw a glow inside it. As he called the attention of other firemen, the glow developed into visible fire inside the house. He said that the house and barn were too far apart for the fire to have spread from one to the other. The wind was not blowing in that direction.

The court Tuesday afternoon, following the return of the jury finding Huff and Wonder guilty on the burglary and larceny-mischief charges, revoked the bail of the two men, thus placing them in custody of the sheriff. (MORE?)

U.S. Favors Merger Of Outer Space Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials, although not commenting publicly, privately welcomed Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's suggestion today that the two countries pool their resources in exploring outer space.

In fact, the United States has made a number of similar proposals since 1958, and the hope is that Khrushchev's message may indicate a change in the Soviet attitude, which heretofore has indicated no real disposition to engage in such cooperation.

The White House said the Soviet leader's message had not yet been received. The message, it is understood, is at the State Department and will be forwarded to the White House after translation.

HAS 5 DIOCESES

The new province of Atlanta comprises five dioceses in addition to Atlanta—Charleston, S.C.; Miami, Fla.; Raleigh, N.C.; St. Augustine, Fla., and Savannah, Ga., all formerly part of the Baltimore province which now is left with the suffragan sees of Richmond, Va.; Wheeling, W. Va. and Wilmington, Del.

The new head of the San Francisco see, Bishop McGucken, has headed the Sacramento diocese since Jan. 14, 1957, having been named auxiliary with right of succession a year earlier.

The archbishop of the Atlanta province, Bishop Hallinan has headed the Charleston see since Dec. 28, 1958. He succeeds Bishop Francis E. Hyland who resigned last year.

GOLDFINE TO LEAVE PRISON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Aging Bernard Goldfine, his health failing and his textile empire besieged by federal tax claims, will be paroled Friday after serving 8½ months of a year and a day sentence for income tax evasion.

The Justice Department announced Tuesday Goldfine will be released on condition that he go to a private hospital or convalescent home.

The parole board, in deciding to release the Boston industrialist, took note of his "serious medical condition," a Justice Department spokesman said. The board also noted that, with time off for good behavior, Goldfine was due for release March 25 anyhow.

AT PHS HOSPITAL

Goldfine, 71, whose gifts to men in high government made headlines in a 1958 congressional investigation, has been under treatment at a Public Health Service hospital at Staten Island, N.Y.

He was sent there last December after suffering a cerebral stroke at the Federal Correctional Institution in Danbury, Conn. Officials said Goldfine also was being treated for recurrence of an emotional disturbance.

He was sentenced to prison, fined $110,000 and put on probation for five years in federal court at Boston last June 5. Goldfine had pleaded guilty to evasion of nearly $800,000 in income taxes, and lost a last-ditch bid to withdraw the plea.

The industrialist and his textile firms now face federal tax suits totaling more than $7.8 million, filed in New England last month.

Rosenthal Wins Special Election

NEW YORK (AP)—Benjamin S. Rosenthal, 38, a Democrat backed by President Kennedy, apparently won a congressional seat in a special election Tuesday. He triumphed in a three-man field by an unofficial 193 votes.

Republicans challenged the results. Runnerup Thomas F. Galvin did not immediately demand a recount, but he asked for and obtained a round-the-clock police guard on the voting machines.

The unofficial final tally gave Rosenthal 16,032 votes to 15,839 for Galvin and 4,216 to Emil Levin, 56, a Democrat running as an independent.

3 MEN ADMIT 17 ROBBERIES

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Three Bucks County men have admitted 17 burglaries in eastern Pennsylvania and one in Syracuse, N.Y., police say.

The trio—Carl N. Barron, 25, Quakertown; David Winkler, 19, Quakertown R. 1, and Merritt S. Moyer, 19, Lansdale—were arrested early Tuesday while allegedly burglarizing a clothes store in the downtown area.

Police said they subsequently admitted taking power tools, television sets and other items from stores in Phoenixville, Bethlehem, Reading, Tower City, Lansdale, Norristown and Schuylkill Haven.

They are being held in $4,000 bail each on charges of burglary, conspiracy and possession of burglary tools.

EXPECT HOUSE TO BEAT URBAN AFFAIRS BILL

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's plan to create a new department of urban affairs and housing bobs up in the House today. It is expected to go down to quick defeat.

Even Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., has conceded he doesn't have enough votes to prevent House rejection of the plan, sent to Congress by President Kennedy under his reorganization powers.

Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader, said Tuesday he expects an overwhelming vote against it, and "I think you're going to be surprised at the number of Democrats who vote against it." He said he hoped it would come to a vote today, although 10 hours of debate are scheduled under House rules.

"HOT POTATO"

This political hot potato was made hotter by Kennedy's announcement he would name Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, to head the new department. Weaver, now chief of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, thus would become the first Negro Cabinet member.

Republican leaders expect to muster all but a few of their 174 House members against the plan, and they will be joined by a solid phalanx of 80 to 90 Southern Democrats who make no bones about disliking the idea of a Negro in the Cabinet. This is more than enough to beat the plan.

An adverse vote in the House means the plan is dead, and it won't come to a vote in the Senate. Democratic leaders had hoped to get a roll call vote in both sides by putting it first before the Senate where it was expected to get through. But the Senate voted Tuesday 58-42 not to bypass procedure to bring it to the floor.

A Republican, Rep. George Meader, R-Mich., forced a hurry-up consideration in the House by

Father And Two Of His Children Burn

POINT LOOKOUT, N.Y. (AP)—A man and two of his children burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed their home in this Long Island community.

Firemen listed the dead as John Hagerstrom, 46; his son, Neils 6, and daughter, Christon, 10.

Two sons, Edward, 11, and John 12, were badly burned and taken to a hospital. The wife and mother, who works as a waitress, was not home at the time of the fire.

APARTMENT BLASTED

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP)—An explosion and fire wrecked one apartment house and badly damaged another Tuesday night. Fourteen persons were treated for shock or had glass removed from their bodies.

Fire Chief Leslie Coon said a blast blamed on an accumulation of natural gas tore through the year-old apartment building, shattered every window, broke windows in adjoining apartment houses and was felt three blocks away.

OFFICIALS ARE PROUD OF SUIT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Officials of the Naval Air Development Center and the Air Crew Equipment Laboratory at the Philadelphia Naval Base are beaming with pride over the successful space orbit of astronaut John Glenn Tuesday. They played a key role in the training.

Capt. Roland A. Bosse, director of the laboratory where Glenn went through rigorous training, said he was particularly proud about the space suit the astronaut wore. It was designed and developed at the laboratory.

MERCURY TESTS

Bosse said Glenn went through many tests here to assure his survival if anything went wrong within the Mercury capsule.

During his orbit around the earth Glenn mentioned the temperature inside the capsule was 115 degrees. Bosse said during tests in a prototype of the Mercury the astronaut was subjected to a temperature of 170 degrees.

Capt. F. K. Smith of the Navy Medical Corps, director of the Aviation Medical Acceleration Laboratory, said: "We feel as though we had a personal interest in Glenn's flight. When he left here last October, he was in excellent physical condition."

Word And Picture Story Of Colonel Glenn's Historic World Flight

GLENN TELLS EXPERTS ABOUT HISTORIC TRIP

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
GRAND TURK ISLAND (AP)—You live the heady exhilaration of being the first American to orbit the earth.

Then you come back to walk barefooted over wooden rails, like a country boy. And suffer the nuisance of having warm water squirted in your ears.

Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is back today to just such worldly events after his historic trip that left him feeling "fine, wonderful, I couldn't feel better." He is now engaged in two days of resting and unwinding and being checked medically like a specimen from Mars, and telling experts all that happened on his trip while his memory is fresh.

SECLUDED HIDEAWAY

Doing this calls for a secluded hideaway on this small island 700 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral before he returns to meet President Kennedy and speak to the world Friday near his blast-off space port.

The barefoot walking on rails—with eyes opened and eyes closed—and having water squirted into his ears are part of a medical-scientific way of learning exactly what happened to a man who spent 4½ hours in the strange realm of space. They are special tests of his sense of balance.

Marine Lt. Col. Glenn took the same tests before he went. They were high on the list of things to do when he flew in here at 9:10 p.m. Tuesday.

NO ILL EFFECTS

The purpose: to find whether weightlessness upset him in any degree. A man in orbit has no sense of weight, no familiar reactions or feelings from the pull of gravity. Some 25 hours of it made Russia's Gherman Titov kind of seasick. One trip around the world did not upset Yuri Gagarin.

Glenn says he didn't find it upsetting either, say officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Perhaps, one suggested, Glenn fell in between the amount of time in space that would have effects.

Scientists want objective measurements to study this puzzle to pave the way for longer trips into space.

WAS COPILOT

Glenn flew to this 12-square mile island, site of an Air Force Atlantic tracking station, as copilot on a plane off the deck of the carrier USS Randolph after he had splashed down at sea. He was greeted by two fellow astronauts, backup pilot Scott Carpenter and Donald Slayton, the next American nominated for space travel.

A bit fatigued but jaunty and cheerful, Glenn grinned at the small crowd at the airport and allowed, "It's been a long day and an interesting one, too, I might add."

Marine

hap, indicated that an explosive device designed to separate the capsule's heat shield after re-entry into the atmosphere had ignited prematurely over the Pacific during the second orbit.

To keep the heat shield from falling away too soon, officials decided Glenn had better keep his retro rocket package, with its restraining straps, attached to the capsule.

COULD HAVE BURNED

If the heat shield had dropped off before the capsule encountered the terrific friction of re-entry into the atmosphere, the capsule would have burned up in the 3,000-degree heat.

Williams said officials were certain it was a false signal but did not want to chance unloosening the reverse rocket package until after re-entry.

Glenn reported throughout the flight that he was in excellent physical and mental condition. Doctors confirmed this by reading in-flight instrumentation on his heartbeat, pulse, respiration and temperature.

"FINE, WONDERFUL"

"I feel fine, wonderful, and I couldn't feel better," Glenn exclaimed on his arrival at Grand Turk.

Dr. Stanley White, director of medical support for Project Mercury, said that Glenn's physical status—heartbeat, etc.—went up about 50 per cent during the extreme pressure of blastoff and re-entry, but otherwise they were normal.

White said medical experts have been concerned about the possible effect of weightlessness since Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov reported a feeling of nausea during much of his 17-orbit flight last August.

"NO DISCOMFORT"

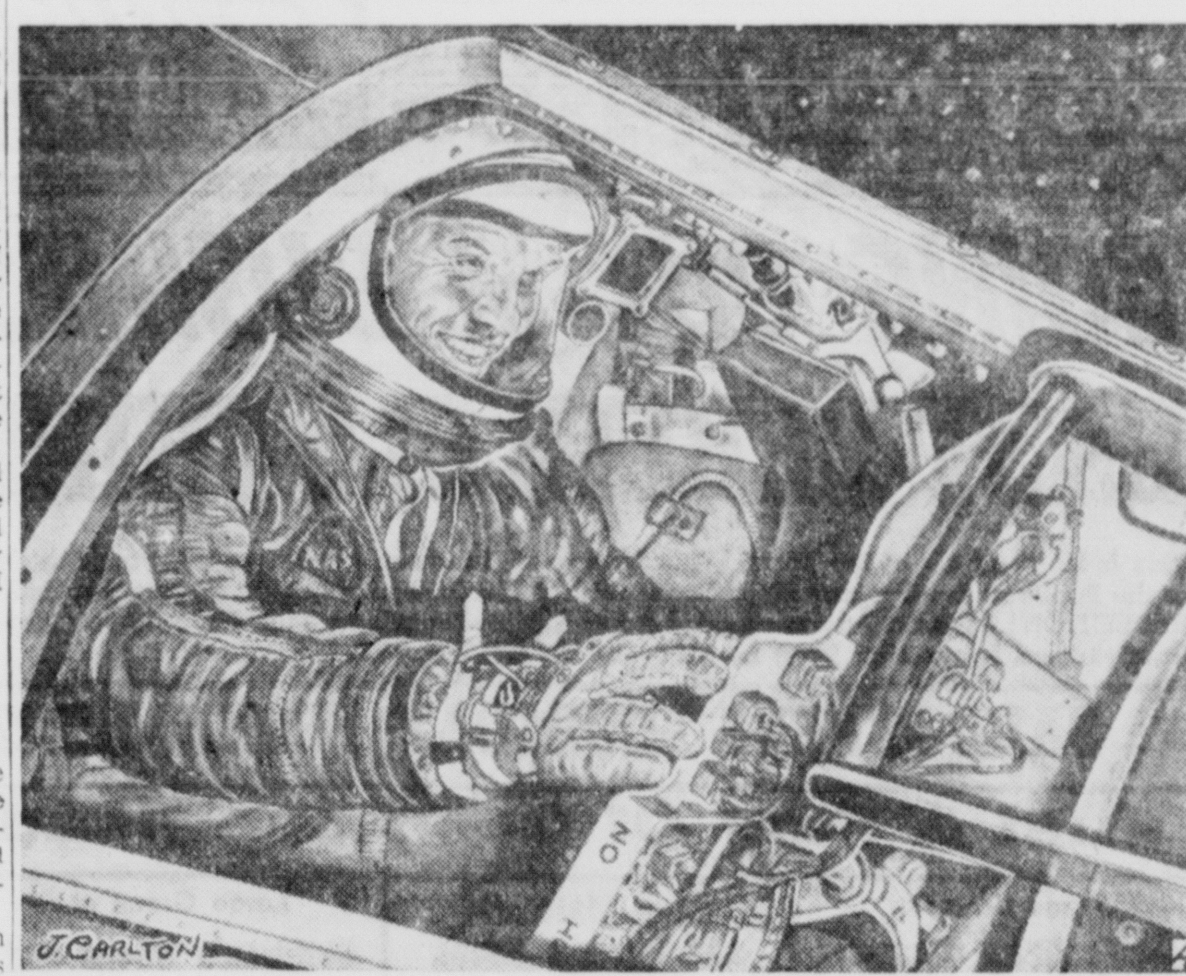

"John reported no discomfort from weightlessness," White said. "Neither did he become sick after eating in space. He tried different type foods—paste-like meat and vegetable mixture, fruit squeezed from a bottle and solid milk pills. But there was no adverse reaction."

Throughout the flight, the daring Marine astronaut performed like a test pilot, handling his craft, making observations, keeping a flight log.

All the while, he kept in voice contact with the ground stations of the worldwide Mercury tracking network. From his 100 to 160-mile high vantage point in space he had breath-taking views of the earth stretching 1,800 miles from horizon to horizon.

"Tremendous. A beautiful sight," he described the view below.

"THE BEGINNING"

Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, called Glenn's flight "the beginning of the exploration of space. A few years from now we'll look back on the Mercury capsule and think of it as we now think of the Wright Brothers' airplane."

D. Brainard Holmes, director of NASA's manned space flight program, said "we will now fly more extensive and complicated missions." He said three or four more triple orbit missions and at least one 18-orbit manned flight are planned this year.

LAUDED BY JFK

In leading the accolades for America's new space hero, President Kennedy hailed Glenn as a man of whom the country could be proud.

"We have a long way to go in the space race and we started late," Kennedy said. "This is a new ocean and we must sail on it and be in a position second to none."

Commemorative Astronaut Stamp Went On Sale First Day Of Glenn's Orbiting

(The commemorative stamps went on sale at the local post office this morning.)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hidden away in 300 post offices across the country were mysterious sealed packages that carried orders, "Do not open."

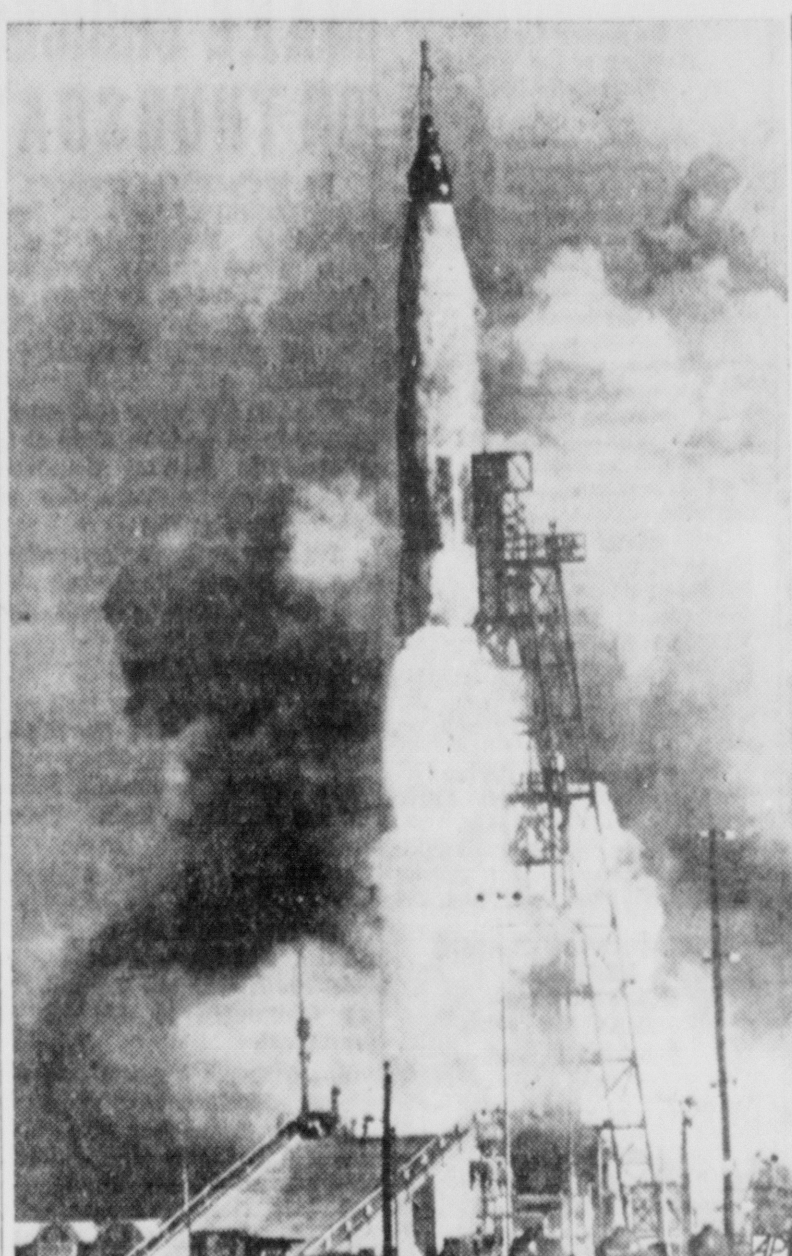

The mystery was solved Tuesday. The moment astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was plucked from the Atlantic as the first American to orbit the earth, the Post Office Department in Washington flashed the word: "Open package and sell stamps."

The packages contained a special issue of four-cent stamps commemorating Glenn's flight—a simple blue rectangle with a space capsule, catching the rays of the sun, soaring over the earth. It carries the legend, "U. S. Man in Space," and in capital letters: PROJECT MERCURY.

Cape Canaveral Friday, the President will receive the astronaut at the White House next Monday or Tuesday, Washington plans a mammoth celebration.

People from nearly all lands joined in praise for the historic flight. Congratulatory messages flooded Washington.

Even the Russians appeared somewhat impressed, Moscow radio and television outlets carried factual accounts of the flight.

Millions Captivated By Colonel Glenn's Flight Three Times Around World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans of every political shade and social scale were united today in cheering a single man who had carried their hopes to the stars and had written another chapter in the human adventure.

The man was Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.—an individual of a nation of individuals. He was in his space capsule all alone, but 180 million hearts beat with his, and Americans throughout the land had joined in a single prayer: "Please, God, let him make it."

During the flight business workers, government officials and just plain people dropped everything to follow the proceedings.

EVERYTHING CEASES

Stores emptied. Kitchens were deserted. Telephone conversations were cut down markedly. Schoolchildren were given their current events lesson via television and radio.

In Reno, Nev., gamblers quit the gaming tables. President Kennedy arose to watch the preparations on a TV set, then phoned Cape Canaveral to make a personal check on the situation.

Congress all but halted its deliberations as legislators watched a portable TV set to see the progress of America's first representative to outer space.

5,000 IN DEPOT

In New York City, 5,000 commuters stood in Grand Central Terminal to watch the rocket firing on a huge television screen. There were shouts of "Thank God" and "He made it" when word was received that Glenn had been picked up.

In New Jersey, Gov. Richard J. Hughes proclaimed it "John Glenn Day" while citizens organized a parade in the capital city of Trenton.

In Nebraska, an executive of Omaha's largest department store reported practically no business.

In Michigan, legislators and state house employees in Lansing watched TV sets installed in the House chamber and Senate corridor.

NAME GLENN SCHOOL

The school board at North St. Paul, Minn., fired off a telegram to Glenn saying it was going to name a new junior high school for him.

Salt Lake City motorists sounded their car horns at announcement of the blastoff.

At Louisville, Ky., the police court was interrupted while a defendant brought forward a TV set. Everybody watched.

Americans of every creed prayed—together or alone, audibly or in silence. When it was all over, the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., of which Glenn is a member, sent the astronaut a message which said in part: "Our prayers have not been in vain."

JOHN GLENN FAMILY BACK TO NORMALCY

By MARTHA COLE

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The family of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. had no special plans for today—just an attempt to get back to normal.

It was back to school for the two teenage children, David, 16, and Lynn, 14.

They stayed home Tuesday with their mother, her parents, and family friends to watch television broadcasts of Glenn's historic orbital space flight.

It was a happy group that gathered for a neighborhood celebration Tuesday night at the end of a day that began for the family before 6 a.m.

"The most wonderful day for my family," Mrs. Glenn called it. Glenn called his wife and children about 4:40 p.m. from the destroyer which had picked him up. Minutes later President Kennedy called Mrs. Glenn with his congratulations.

GIFTS TO GLENN

Flowers and telegrams kept coming to the attractive contemporary brick home the Glenns built on a wooded hillside in this suburb of Washington.

The party was at the home of Lt. Col. Thomas H. Miller and his wife, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Leslie E. Brown came, too. Like Lt. Col. Glenn, Miller and Brown are Marines. The Millers and Mrs. Brown had stayed in the Glenn home to watch the three TV sets tuned to Glenn's mission. Also there were Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Castor of New Concord, Ohio, Mrs. Glenn's parents.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Brown fixed up a roast beef dinner for the Glenns.

"I'M HAPPY"

Mrs. Glenn, 41, a small brunette, did not see the crowd of reporters and photographers until after Glenn's capsule was recovered and word was flashed that he was all right. Then she came out on the front porch with her children.

"I'm happy—I feel great," she said with a big smile. She probably was worried some of the time, she acknowledged, but "it's faith that makes things look right, like everything's going to be fine," she said.

The group inside the house bowed their heads for a prayer of thanksgiving after Glenn's recovery. The Rev. Frank A. Erwin, pastor of the Little Falls United Presbyterian church which the Glenns attend, led the prayer. The Rev. Mr. Erwin, a family friend, spent the day at the Glenn home.

Astronaut's Flight Into Orbit Is Only Beginning Of Extensive Space Plans

By BEM PRICE

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The flight of U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the world was but a beginning.

Space programs, which ultimately will cost upwards of $10 billion, are coming into being from one end of the nation to the other.

The success of Glenn's venture into space Tuesday was a signal. Throughout the remainder of 1962, the United States plans to fly five orbital missions—four identical to Glenn's and one of 18 orbits.

This program will continue into 1963 until four men have orbited the earth 18 times each.

SEEK 2,000 AIDES

Even now the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is in the process of recruiting 2,000 additional scientists and engineers to add to its roster of 6,000.

The object of the prolonged orbital program is to accustom astronauts to life and working conditions in the dark of space and during periods of prolonged weightlessness.

On Dec. 7, NASA announced a $500-million program to build space trains for use as bases for exploration of the moon.

Eventually, under this program two-man space ships will be lifted into orbit along with extra fuel tanks and then coupled in space in much the same fashion as railroad trains are assembled in a marshaling yard.

TRAIN ASTRONAUTS

The purpose of the space train program is to train astronauts for future trips around and to the moon. The two-man spaceships will remain in orbit for a week or longer.

Flights by the two-man spacecraft are scheduled to begin in the 1963-64 period, NASA said, with the present seven astronauts acting as pilots.

SLAYTON IS IN 'GO' POSITION FOR APRIL SHOT

By CHARLES STAFFORD

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Now it's Donald K. (Deke) Slayton in the astronauts' go position.

Sometime in April, the muscular 37-year-old Air Force major will ride his own space capsule into orbit aboard Atlas 107D—already on its way to the launching pad. He will, that is, unless a combination of weather and technical troubles touch off a series of delays like those which thwarted spaceman John H. Glenn Jr. for so long.

Slayton, a ready man with a wisecrack, monitored Glenn's trail-blazing flight Tuesday from the Mercury control center at the Cape. Then he flew down the missile range to Grand Turk Island to welcome Glenn back from space with a vigorous handshake.

PLAN THREE ORBITS

Glenn, Slayton and astronaut Scott Carpenter soon had their heads together in animated conversation about the jaunty Marine's orbital flight.

Slayton's flight will follow Glenn's trail—three orbits. However, he will have different assignments while whirling through space so more information can be obtained.

Slayton's backup pilot will be Walter Marty Schirra Jr., 36, a Navy commander from Hackensack, N.J.

Still waiting at the launch pad for a flight assignment are Scott Carpenter of Boulder, Colo., Gordon Cooper Jr. of Shawnee, Okla., and Schirra.

Robert L. Gilruth, Project Mercury director, said all will get their chance. Following the Slayton flight, he said, new pilot teams will be formed among the seven astronauts for later flights.

Slayton was born in Sparta, Wis., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Slayton, who live there now. He is married to the former Marjorie Lunney of Los Angeles, and they have one son, Kent.

ment, the United States will begin to recruit additional space pilots.

While the space train program is in full swing the nation will be striving to build a huge rocket capable of producing thrusts upwards of 22 million pounds.

FLIGHTS TO MOON

If this vehicle proves feasible, direct flights to the moon will be attempted. This is known as Project Nova.

Parallel to all this the United States will be engaged in still another moon landing program known as Project Apollo.

North American Aviation recently was awarded a $400-million contract to build a three-man space capsule for Project Apollo.

On Dec. 15, NASA announced that Boeing Co. had been awarded a $300-million contract to build airframes for the huge Apollo rocket known as Saturn.

Eight of these early Saturns, each costing $8 million, will be tested throughout 1962-63.

HEAVY THRUSTS

Later Saturns to be built by Boeing at Michoud, La., will be powered by clusters of new engines known as three F1 and built by Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation.

Each of these F1 engines alone will pack 1.5 million pounds of thrust and will be clustered about a central fuel tank in numbers up to five. Thus, this huge rocket will turn out 7.5 million pounds of thrust in the end. Tests of the big booster are scheduled to be completed in 1966.

With two additional stages, this rocket should be able to hurl a 100-ton spaceship into low orbit—say 300 miles—around the earth or send a 40-ton space ship around the moon.

BEYOND SOLAR SYSTEM

As for exploring the more distant cosmos, beyond the solar system, the United States is already hard at work on that, too, in a very preliminary way.

What is needed for these beyond-the-moon expeditions is a power source producing speeds somewhere close to that of light.

Already the United States has developed a prototype electrical propulsion system, for use in space only which purely hypothetically could approach this speed—186,000 miles per second.

A prototype of this engine has been tested for 15 hours in a vacuum chamber at NASA's Lewis Research Center at Cleveland, Ohio.

OHIO TOWN BASKING IN GLENN GLORY

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—

This little Muskingum County, Ohio, town basked today in the reflected glory of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.—and not many other places had a better right.

America's first man to orbit the earth lived here half his life. He went to primary, grade and high school here, and even to college.

He wed his childhood New Concord sweetheart, and it was here he played as a boy and won remembrance of the townfolk as a freckle-faced, red-haired lad who loved everything about aviation.

Already his home town has honored the astronaut. It has named a little community park northwest of town—between Columbus, Ohio and Wheeling, W. Va., on U.S. 40—after him. Now a move is under way to put his name to a new consolidated high school.

PLAN CELEBRATION

The big excitement for this town of little more than 2,000 people isn't all over now that their favorite son has made his orbital space flight. Mayor James K. Taylor believes that in the near future, John Glenn will come home, and then there will be a big celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn Sr., the astronaut's parents, who starred in a news conference at Muskingum College after the space flight, went home Tuesday night to spend a quiet evening—perhaps their first really restful one in many weeks. They assured everyone that there had never been any doubt in their minds that their son's trip into space would be anything but successful.

JOLLY, SMILING

They were jolly and smiling when it was all over—but they have been that way through the tense days and hours before and during the actual blastoff of the orbital project.

The Glenns were asked if they thought prayer had played an important part in the space project. Glenn replied: "We certainly do."

Asked how she felt when the blastoff came, Mrs. Glenn told newsmen this was a hard question to answer "but there never has been a moment since John was chosen for the Mercury project that we had any doubt about his success."

TRUCKERS WILL BE FACED WITH TIGHTER RULES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania truckers will be faced with tighter lighting regulations starting Oct. 31, as the state moves ahead with its campaign for safer roads and highways.

The new standards—all products of the 1961 legislature—hinge on new and improved warning light techniques to be used on trucks, buses and commercial vehicles.

These regulations include mandatory hazard warning switches, stop lamps, electric clearance lamps, reflectors, flares, front and rear identification lamps and improved turn signals.

Already, some truckers are complaining it will cost them too much money to make the adjustments necessary to comply with the requirements.

EXTENDED DEADLINE

The state had planned to make the new standards mandatory April 30, but decided to extend the deadline to October after some truck owners requested more time.

Most controversial of the new regulations is the hazard warning switch—a device aimed at eliminating or reducing rear end collisions.

Under this standard, trucks must be equipped with an electrical switch, allowing truckers to turn on all four turn signals simultaneously as a warning whenever their vehicles become disabled along the road.

A red "tell-tale" indicator also will be required on the trucks' dashboard or in the switch itself to tell the trucker whether the flashing warning signals are operating.

STEEL TALKS IN SIXTH DAY

By BOB VOELKER

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steel contract talks entered the sixth day today amid indications the going may be getting a little rough.

Negotiators, now wrestling with key economic and wage problems, hinted Tuesday the talks are not sailing along as smoothly as suggested earlier.

Hope was expressed the day before that a settlement may be reached before March 1. This highly optimistic prediction was made by the top negotiators, President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers Union and R. Conrad Cooper of U.S. Steel Corp.

But following Tuesday's conferences, they said any "optimism is somewhat premature in light of facts." The joint statement added:

"As indicated yesterday (Mon-

EIGHT STATES ARE BLASTED BY SNOWSTORM

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winter-weary Midwest, hit by biting cold and heavy snow for weeks, plovered through another snowstorm today and shivered at the thought of another month until the arrival of spring.

The new storm, moving out of the Rockies across the midlands, appeared to follow the pattern of the weekend storm which dumped up to two feet of snow and sheets of ice across eight states.

Heavy snow warnings, with blowing and drifting, were in effect from eastern Nebraska, southeast South Dakota, Iowa, southern Minnesota, northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, the northern third of Indiana, southern lower Michigan and northern Ohio.

BELOW ZERO

Below zero weather stung northern Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana. The freezing line extended across most all of the Midwest.

A covering of 10 inches or more was forecast for some areas in Iowa and South Dakota. Falls of 4 to 8 inches were indicated in most other sections. Cleanup operations were slowed as the fresh storm swept eastward.

In Nebraska, many schools called off classes today as drifting snow blocked roads in eastern and central sections. Tuesday night 33 of 41 high school basketball tournaments were postponed.

STRAND CAGERS

In South Dakota, about 100 persons and the Augustana College basketball team remained in Vermillion after a game with South Dakota State because of poor visibility caused by blowing snow. It was the second time in three days the team was marooned by a snowstorm, having been forced to remain in Beresford 15 hours Sunday while returning to Sioux Falls from a game in Sioux City, Iowa.

Outside the snow zone, showers dampened southern parts of the Mississippi Valley; snow flurries flecked northern Maine and the southern Plateau region and rain and showers again hit Southern California.

DEMOCRATS TO MAKE CHOICES ON THURSDAY

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Pennsylvania's Democratic leaders face a closed-door showdown meeting Thursday on whom they will back for the party's nomination for governor in the May 15 primary.

About 20 top policy makers will gather in an upstairs room at the Democratic State Committee headquarters to decide this one overriding question:

Will they or won't they endorse former Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia for the nomination?

DILWORTH OPPOSED

Their agreement—or lack of it—will be reported to the full 72-member Democratic State Policy Committee at a meeting Friday in the Capitol's House Caucus room.

The select policy group already has backed U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt for reelection. It will ask the full Policy Committee to add its endorsement.

But Dilworth has run into outspoken opposition from an old intra-party antagonist, U.S. Rep. William J. Green Jr., Philadelphia Democratic chairman.

It was Green's opposition to Dilworth that derailed two earlier meetings of the select policy group.

Meanwhile, in Pittsburgh Dr. William D. McClelland, chairman of the Allegheny County commissioners, has indicated he will become a candidate for governor should Dilworth follow through on his plans to run.

But besides Dilworth there is no other announced candidate for governor—a situation in marked contrast to the Republicans, who have a number of candidates and the prospects of a bitter primary battle.

Despite that, Green said Tuesday in Washington that as far as he is concerned the field is still wide open for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"I'm not married to selection of any one man," said Green. He repeated that he is still opposed to Dilworth.

"NO HOUSECLEANING"

Joining the anti-Dilworth group Tuesday was Alexander Hemphill, Philadelphia city controller.

In a letter to Gov. Lawrence he contended Dilworth should be barred from the nomination because the former mayor tried to "quietly bury" a series of scandals involving the city administration last year.

Hemphill said in his letter: "While most of the millions lost have been recovered . . . and while scores of lesser officials have been publicly shamed and dismissed, there were no principal officials removed, nor was there any genuine housecleaning."

"This is understandable, for were Mayor Dilworth to take these drastic steps, it would require that he admit the failures of his administration."

LAWRENCE SILENT

Dilworth countered Hemphill's statement by terming the letter "a last moment of desperation" to block the former mayor's governorship bid.

"I think it will fool nobody," said Dilworth.

Other Democratic leaders—notably Gov. Lawrence—maintained a firm silence on their choices for the Democratic nomination.

Lawrence told his weekly news conference Monday he had a preference, but amended his statement to say there were a number of men he could support.

Asked about Dilworth's chances in an interview in Boyertown, Berks County, Tuesday night, Lawrence said:

"I think his chances are excellent, but he's having a struggle with some of the other candidates."

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two brothers pleaded guilty to robbing money from telephone coin boxes were sentenced to prison Tuesday.

Jack L. Meeks, 33, of Abilene, Tex., was sentenced to a two-to-four-year term. Larry R. Meeks, 29, of Apopka, Fla., received a 6-to-23-month sentence. The brothers were arrested here last June.

HONOR GUEST IN ABSENTIA AT W. H. PARTY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House social season opened with glitter and song and toasts to the man who was the talk of the party—astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

Tuesday night's state dinner was given by President and Mrs. Kennedy in honor of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., and Chief Justice Earl Warren. But Glenn was the guest of honor in absentia.

He was the subject of toasts at the banquet of veal filet aspic for 120 guests.

Both Warren and Johnson rose to toast the Marine flier who became the first American to orbit the earth.

SOPRANO SINGS

"Tonight climaxes a memorable day for John Glenn and for the free world," Johnson said.

The song was provided by mezzo soprano Grace Bumbury, 24, St. Louis-born Negro who has been performing in Europe but flew in from Paris for her special White House concert.

But it was Glenn's performance that sparked the evening—even its humor.

Kennedy, who earlier had expressed the thanks of a proud nation to Glenn, observed jestingly that one of the guests—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois—had sent him and Vice President Johnson into political orbit during the day.

Republicans contributed heavily to a vote sidetracking the Kennedy administration's strategy on a proposal to establish a department of urban affairs. And with a House vote coming up, Kennedy said McCormack faced being boosted into the same kind of orbit.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—John Ogden (Jack) Carley, 67, editorial writer and former managing editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, died Tuesday. He suffered with emphysema, a disease which prevents the lungs from extracting oxygen from the air inhaled. Carley joined the Commercial Appeal in 1923 after working for Hearst newspapers in Los Angeles and Chicago. He was born in Ontario, Canada.

The Great Ice Age ended about 10,000 years ago. It created thousands of lakes in the northern parts of Europe and North America.

Students Listen In On Glenn's Voice

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Thomas A. Benham, Haverford College physics instructor, said he and a group of students heard Astronaut John H. Glenn's voice over a home-made set three minutes after he blasted off from Cape Canaveral Tuesday.

Benham said Glenn was heard again for a total of five and a half minutes during the first and second orbits. He said the astronaut's broadcasts were monitored on a very high frequency receiving set built by Benham and students and set up in a trailer parked on the campus.

to make routine repairs, silencing radio and television sets during astronaut John Glenn's blastoff. The current was cut when the countdown stood at 25 seconds. When it was restored 15 minutes later, Glenn was soaring over Africa.

Juvenile Delinquency

PART II—THE PROGRAM
By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP)—There is a sense of urgency evident within the Welfare Department with regard to its juvenile delinquency program.

For one thing, as Welfare Secretary Ruth Grigg Horting herself admitted, there is a definite need for an increase in the "train staff in this field."

For another, it is projected that by 1970, private and public institutions serving juvenile delinquents will require a bed capacity of 4,500. Currently, the existing institutions have a capacity of 2,792.

Thus is found the need to implement and improve existing programs to meet the changes in demands and conditions which may prevail in the future. Which could be said of almost any governmental program.

STARTED IN 1956

The state's juvenile program as it now exists originated in 1956. Daniel R. Bernstein, the supervisor of community and police services in the Welfare Department's Bureau of Youth Services, categorized the program into two basic phases: "Prevention and treatment."

The prevention phase is relatively self-explanatory—attempting to prevent and control as best possible an outbreak of juvenile offenses.

Operations under this phase—i.e., police training, community training in the various aspects of juvenile delinquency, to mention just two—fall under a program of services.

PART OF SERVICES

Treatment, in the broad sense, could be defined as the application of measures designed to rehabilitate the juvenile offender—the degree of success varying with the individual offender. This phase is part of the department's institutional services.

It must be noted here that the juvenile delinquency program is not limited to the auspices of the Welfare Department. Such departments as Labor and Industry, Health, Justice, Public Instruction, and Forests and Waters are brought to play in the program. Juvenile delinquency is an all-encompassing problem. Hence, an all-encompassing program is necessary to counter it.

APEX OF OPERATION

But it can safely be said that the Welfare Department is at the apex of the operation.

Under the department's prevention phase, a heavy emphasis—possibly the heaviest—is placed on the police program.

"Not because it's the most important," Bernstein said, "but because it was getting the least attention."

He indicated the aim of this intensified police effort is to train—or at least familiarize—every policeman and policewoman in the handling of juveniles by 1962.

"We want them to understand child behavior, the law, and the services available," he said.

All training programs are conducted in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association, which also shares to a degree in their financing.

HAVE $756,000

To be more specific, increased emphasis is being placed upon the procurement and training of specialized juvenile officers.

This objective was made more viable by an act of the 1961 General Assembly which provides $756,000 for "development of juvenile probation services and special police and crime prevention programs."

Of the total, $324,000 was allocated for probation services; another $324,000 for police services; and $108,000 for prevention programs.

The need for more specialized police officers was made evident by a 1958 study which showed only 13 juvenile units throughout the state.

HAVE 238 OFFICERS

Of the 238 specialized officers operating within the units at that time, only 28 were located outside of Philadelphia.

To date, the act has resulted in placing 14 new units under development and adding 48 specialized officers to the rolls—25 outside of Philadelphia, 23 within the city.

The department hopes to implement the program this year by $700,000, the amount requested in Gov. Lawrence's 1962-63 budget.

Another important concern of the prevention phase is the effort made to give the community a realization of the problem and encourage unified participation in combating it.

YOUTH CONFERENCES

"We attempt to get them to know what the problems of youth are in the '60s and how they can join up to work with these people juvenile specialists," Bernstein said.

This is accomplished through a series of youth program conferences held for service and fraternal organizations, clergymen, and group work agencies such as the YMCA, the boys clubs, the Boy Scouts, and others.

It is obvious however, that these prevention designs will not be 100 percent successful. It is a hard fact that some juveniles—the department estimates almost 3,000 a year—are committed by the courts to institutions.

"HARD CORPS"

What are these institutions and what is their method of operation? First, another distinction. There is a "hard corps" of juvenile delinquents who are not susceptible to rehabilitation treatment.

This type—depending upon the judgment of the court is committed to what is commonly referred to as a maximum security institution, the prison or cell block type of environment.

These institutions come under the jurisdiction of the Justice Department. They are in themselves another story.

PRESENT PROBLEM

But they present a problem to the Welfare Department in that the wayward youth is committed to an institution which also houses adult criminals. This is of concern to the rehabilitative people. Their long range goal is to have separate facilities to isolate the boy from the man, regardless of the crime.

Briefly, as reviewed by Irving Kersgen, director of institutions, Office of Youth and Children, the institutions are of two types—the youth development center and the youth forestry camp.

Currently, there are three public youth development centers in operation: Canonsburg, with a rated capacity of 256, but housing 280 delinquents; Philadelphia, with a rated capacity of 150, but housing an average of 195; and Waynesburg with a rated capacity of 45, housing 35.

NEED MORE CENTERS

Kersgen said the General State Authority is negotiating for the construction of two more centers—one at Cresson, another at Loydsburg.

There is also under discussion the transfer of an Allegheny County institution at Warrendale to state control. Future plans call for another center to be built at Weaversville.

The department also operates three youth forestry camps: One in Raccoon State Park near Hookstown, population 36; a second at Hickory Run State Park, White Haven, population 19; and the third in Trough Creek State Park, Huntingdon, population 14.

MINIMUM SECURITY

Those camps are of the minimum security type. Plans call for the expansion of these facilities so that each eventually can house 50 delinquents.

Be it youth development center or forestry camp, the object of each is the same: "To develop a permissive climate to reach the kids so that their conflict can rise to the surface and spill over," Kersgen said.

This may be done in different ways by different people. But the

LEGISLATURE MAY END TERM IN NEXT WEEK

HARRISBURG (AP)—Legislative leaders set their sights on a windup of the 1962 General Assembly next week after the Senate cleared the last of more than a billion dollars worth of appropriation measures.

Between breaks to check the progress of astronaut John Glenn's historic space flight, the Senate Tuesday approved $947 million worth of appropriations bills, including one for $910 million.

The Senate on Monday had approved $77.6 million worth of special spending bills.

After the session, Majority program people agree that it must be done if rehabilitation is to become a reality.

PARENTS IMPORTANT

The parent is an important part of the rehabilitation process. Conferences are held with him in order that he may become a "part of the participating team" and realize his responsibility to his delinquent child.

This, then, is an outline of the state juvenile delinquency program, the detailed aspects of which could each be a series in themselves.

Is the program successful? Well, the program is impressive. The sincerity of the people working in it is obvious. Only time can accurately measure its final degree of success.

Tomorrow — Enforcement —

Leader Charles R. Weiner said both houses would aim to conclude the session's business next Wednesday. The 1962 legislature is limited by the constitution to consideration of financial matters.

All six bills approved Tuesday were returned to the House for agreement on approximately $285,000 in increases inserted by the Senate.

The Senate also confirmed reappointment of Chairman A. D. Cohn of the Liquor Control Board for another six-year term. Sens. Elmer Hawbaker, R-Franklin, and George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, voted against Cohn in the 48-2 rollcall.

AID FOR SCHOOLS

The general appropriations bill providing $910 million for operating the state government in the 12 months beginning July 1, were passed 49-1. Sen. Clarence Bell, R-Delaware, cast the dissenting vote.

Fourteen Democrats joined with 24 Republicans in ramming through a $9.1 million plan to assure some 2,000 school districts as much state aid next year as they got this year.

The vote was 38-10, with seven Democrats from Philadelphia and three from Pittsburgh casting dissents.

WOULD UPHOLD VETO

Under the plan, none of the money would go to either Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, which received more state aid while non-urban districts were slated for less under property revaluations.

Despite the vote, Weiner said he was confident that Gov. Lawrence will be upheld if he vetoes the $9.1 million rider as he has threatened.

Republican Floor Leader James S. Berger also expressed doubt that a veto could be overcome. Two-thirds votes of both houses are required to upset a veto. This hasn't been done in more than 25 years.

Democrats voting for the additional aid said their districts would suffer without it. The same position was taken by the Republicans.

The other bills were approved on votes of 50-0.

MORE FOR PSU

One appropriate $20.2 million to Pennsylvania State University. The Senate added the $200,000 for research on detergents in sewage systems, but it rejected Republican amendments for $2.3 million more.

The other bills would appropriate $530,000 to the Glen Mills School in Delaware County, $50,910 to the Berean Manual Training School in Philadelphia and $100,000 for Civil War Centennial celebrations.

Other highlights:

Safety Deposit Boxes—The Senate passed 50-0 and sent to the House a bill that would prohibit the state from sealing jointly held safety deposit boxes on the death of a spouse.

Investigations—A resolution proposing investigation of consumer credit laws was approved 48-2. A bipartisan subcommittee of the Senate Banking Committee will make the study, which was inspired by the failure of several finance companies in St. Marys.

Have Good Excuse For Playing Hookey

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tommy, Jimmie, and Nancy Hookey played hookey from school Tuesday, but they had a pretty unusual excuse—they stayed home to watch their Uncle John go into orbit.

Pope John XXIII To Receive R. Kennedy

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII received U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy today and expressed his congratulations for the space flight of American astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.

Pope John, who reportedly prayed for the successful outcome of the space flight while Glenn orbited the earth, received Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, at the threshold of his private library. The Pope was smiling broadly, attendants said.

The supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church expressed his hope to the President's brother, a Catholic, that scientific progress, as demonstrated by Glenn's orbital flight would "always and only" be used for the welfare of mankind and the service of peace. The pontiff said he hoped such developments would never be used as a means of destruction.

Pope John first received Kennedy alone in his private library, a large, many-windowed chamber. A few minutes later Mrs. Kennedy joined the audience. The meeting lasted about 25 minutes.

Sister, Mrs. James Hookey of nearby Ross Twp., is the mother of the three hookey-players.

Mr. and Mrs. Hookey also stayed home to watch Glenn's orbital flight on television.

Mrs. Hookey talked with her sister in Arlington, Va., by telephone and said Mrs. Glenn "seemed calm, cool and collected as she always is. She said she talked to him five minutes before he was launched and that it was a real thrill."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

MILK BOARD POLICY CALLED UNATTRACTIVE

PITTSBURGH (AP)—State Atty. Gen. David Stahl says the present four-cent discount on gallon sales of milk is not enough to make the glass gallon jug attractive to consumers.

Stahl testified Tuesday at the second day of hearings being held by the State Milk Control Commission. Further testimony was to be heard today.

The hearings center on the commission's ruling that gallon quantities of milk may be sold at a discount rate only in gallon glass jugs—barring a lightweight pack of two half-gallon plastic cartons stapled together, which was marketed by Jounrey Belle Cooperative Farmers, Inc., at the discount price.

After the hearing, Stahl said, "The commission should have followed the lead of other markets and made the discount on gallon jug sales meaningful—a substantial discount of 10 or 15 cents."

At the hearing, Stahl remarked, "If the commission feels that it could provide a 10-cent or 15-cent discount on the gallon jug, we wouldn't be in here arguing and making some of the arguments we are."

Theodore I. Hedrick, professor of food science at Michigan State University, told the hearing he agreed with a U.S. Agriculture Department expert who said Monday that a discount should be based on quantity, not packaging.

COMMERCIALS FRUSTRATING, SAYS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP)—Although there turn up occasional reports of surveys indicating that the viewers really like commercials, a television columnist must be permitted to doubt their accuracy.

This columnist does, largely because so many annoyed, frustrated and angry letters about commercials continually flow in from readers.

One long-standing complaint is that commercials are frequently louder than the entertainment programs surrounding them. This has been denied officially and repeatedly, but my own ears tell me it is true.

Another frequent complaint is the deadly repetition. As one viewer puts it, "Does it make sense for a company to spend thousands of dollars on a program that attracts regular viewers—and then have it repeat, repeat and repeat the same commercial until you want to close your eyes and ears to avoid it?"

He mentions particularly commercials for one headache remedy, a head-cold congestion remedy and several cigarettes. "I'm pretty bored with pictures of draining sinuses, myself, but at the top of my current 'turn the darned set off' list is the one with the band marching, for no apparent reason, through a field of tobacco. And those smokers who come up, up, up from a valley of fog is in No. 2 place."

When Johnny Carson moves into Jack Paar's spot next fall, the name of the NBC program will revert to its original one: "The Tonight Show, starring Johnny Carson."

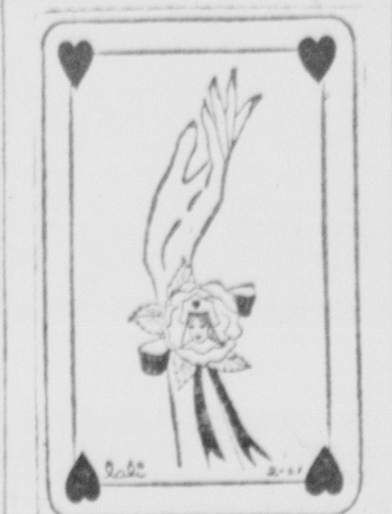

The true measure of Johnny's success will be shown in the speed with which NBC changes the name to "The Johnny Carson Show."

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Public quizzing of Francis Gary Powers, after the government finishes questioning him, might make headlines for a few days but probably wouldn't illuminate or prove much.

There have been some persistent questions about the case of the 32-year-old U2 pilot whose spy plane was downed while on a flight over Russia May 1, 1960:

thumb and forefinger face your public. To see how the pose carries over into most gestures, sit with a hand, palm up, in your lap. Or stand with hands at your sides, and let your fingertips barely touch your skirt. How much more attractive this view than a flat expanse!

DO abstain from showing your hand straight out when shaking another's. All in slow rhythm, lead with your wrist and then turn the palm in clasp position. DON'T fidget. Fidgeters give people the twidgets. Hands need not be immobilized but neither should they be in perpetual motion.

DO shun party gestures. Holding a cup with the little finger stuck out like a semaphore is one such. Curling the finger would be the natural action. And without naturalness, there can be no graceful.

Did a Russian rocket bring him down? Why didn't he destroy his plane to keep it and its equipment out of Russian hands? Why did he admit his guilt so readily at his trial?

LIMITS ANSWERS

Powers already has answered some of them, President Kennedy has put a limit on how much he can say publicly.

The government has been questioning Powers, with the press kept away, since the Russians released him and he returned here over a week ago after serving 21 months of a 10-year sentence for spying.

Once the government has finished, Kennedy said last week, Powers "will give whatever information would be in the national interest to give." This limits what he can answer.

FURTHER PROBE

There's been talk, but nothing final, about a further congressional investigation. The chairman of a couple of Senate committees have expressed interest in digging deeper into his case. Some other senators are reluctant.

When Powers' plane started down, 1,200 miles inside Russia, he was supposedly flying at 68,000 feet, or 12 miles. There has been doubt the Russians had a rocket good enough to bring him down from that height.

After Powers' Moscow trial Pravda published a letter it said he had written to clear up the point of why his plane went down.

DIDN'T FEEL BLOW
It quoted him as saying he didn't feel any blow of a direct hit but believed the plane was wrecked by the shock wave of an explosion and thought the tail was blown off, forcing the plane to nose down, with the wings then dropping off.

Why didn't Powers blow up his plane, when he knew it was going down inside Russia, instead of taking to his parachute, as he said he did at about 14,000 feet?

As his trial Powers denied he was supposed to blow up the plane. The Russians suggested at the trial that he was supposed to commit suicide with a poison needle they said they found on him. Powers said this was to be used only if, after capture, he was tortured and couldn't stand it.

COULDN'T DENY SPYING

The answer to the question—why did he ever admit at his trial he was on a spying mission over Russia?—seems simple enough. He could hardly deny it when the U.S. State Department had already admitted it.

There's no answer yet to this question: why did he seem to cooperate with the Russians at his trial to the extent of saying "I realize I committed a grave crime" and expressing regret he had ever made the flight?

It has been reported, but not publicly verified by him, that he was brainwashed and drugged.

The answer might be as natural as this: that the Russians promised to let him off with a comparatively light sentence—instead of shooting him for spying, as they could have done—if he frankly admitted what he had done.

WORLD SHOW

During the trial the Russians deliberately handled him like a mechanical man who had been merely carrying out orders. Soviet authorities made it clear their main purpose was convicting the United States before world opinion.

Before anyone starts condemning Powers for not being a tight-lipped hero who should have killed himself or kept silent at his trial, he might ask himself honestly: what would I have done in Powers' place?

Some men bend more easily under pressure than others. Some are extraordinary in resistance to aides sat in the front row in the Protestant chapel of Leopoldville for the service conducted in both English and French.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko represented the Congoese government. Irish Gen. Sean McKeown, U.N. Congo force commander, led the U.N. members. The Congoese army provided an honor guard.

Miss Elizabeth Thring of Washington, D.C., who was with Stogner in his bedroom when he was shot, was reported in Queen Elizabeth Hospital where she was being held in "preventive custody." She was questioned again today by Congoese security officers investigating the slaying of Stogner, whose wife and six children live in El Paso, Tex.

Stroehmann real ITALIAN bread

Even before the "decline and fall" the bread of Rome probably tasted almost as good as Stroehmann Italian Bread. We still season the dough in the time-honored Italian fashion to accent the flavor. But now we bake it the modern Stroehmann way which gives you the slightly terrific, different taste of Stroehmann Italian Bread. Toast it, butter it, sandwich it. You'll love it!

Cubs Need Better Pitching, Tighter Defense This Year

By ELVIN TAPPE
MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Better pitching and a tighter defense is about all it would take for us to finish in the first division this season.

I'm not a bit worried about our offense because with such long ball hitters as Ernie Banks, Ron Santo, Billy Williams and George Altman we're going to score a lot of runs.

Last year, our pitching staff gave up more hits than any other in the National League and it had the second worst earned run average.

We plan on rotating four starters, Glen Hobbie, Dick Ellsworth, Don Cardwell and Bobby Locke. We got Locke from Cleveland where he pitched mostly in relief. Jack Curtis, the young lefty who won 10 games for us last season, will probably be the No. 5 starter and spot man.

There will be some spirited competition for jobs at second base, in the outfield and behind the plate.

We lost Don Zimmer in the expansion draft and gave Jerry Kindall to Cleveland in the Locke deal. However, we have four second basemen and anyone of them could make the grade — Andre Rodgers and rookies Ken Hubbs, Elder Whit, and Daryl Robertson.

GOOD CATCHERS
Sammy Taylor, Cuno Barragan and Moe Thacker should be able to handle the catching assignments.

Altman and Williams are set at two outfield spots. The problem is to find the third man from among Bob Will, Nelson Matthews, Danny Murphy and Lou Brock.

With Banks at shortstop and Santo at third, the left side of the infield is solid. We're hoping Moe Morehardt will make the grade at first base.

I'm optimistic about our chances of moving up a few places in the standings. If everything breaks right, a first division finish is not out of the question.

BOYLE'S Grab Bag

By HAL BOYLE

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Something happened to me today that maybe shouldn't happen to a dog—and never has.

I became 51 years old. The day was made memorable by a birthday card from my 74-year-old mother in Kansas City, who is quietly proud of the fact that the five children she bore are still alive—all are over 40—ulcer-free and able to enjoy three meals a day.

Her card said "Congratulations on your birthday," and added in rhyme: "There are many delights, great and small, but the best in life is to share it all."

That is so typical of Mama I didn't know whether to chuckle or cry. Whenever she gives one of her offspring a pat on the back, she also tosses in a bit of wholesome advice, figuring it won't do his immortal soul any permanent harm. Some firm lost a great personnel executive when Mama turned from the world of business to the business of washing diapers and wiping runny noses.

"MAJOR DISASTER"
There are some who might regard being 51 as a major disaster, but no birthday can be totally dismal to a man so long as the woman who gave him life can share that milestone with him, even though she be half a continent away.

This alone, though all the rest of his world were gray, should be enough to stir a boundless gratitude in his heart. No man ever walks companionless while his mother lives.

Actually, however, I find a great deal to be cheerful about at 51 and life is looking up.

Some months ago a Harvard professor pointed out that the "Frantic Fifties" were perilous years for many men troubled by frustration, disappointed dreams, hectic living and the fear of advancing age.

SPIRITUAL NOSEDIVE
Much as I hate to disagree with anyone from Harvard, I think more men go into a spiritual nosedive at 40 than at 50. Women do.

MAN KILLED IN 30-FOOT FALL

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An employee of a contracting firm was killed and his co-worker injured Tuesday when they accidentally fell 30 feet from a scaffold to a cement areaway at St. Helena's Church.

Dead on arrival at Albert Einstein Medical Center was Samuel Adams, 35, of Philadelphia. Harry Bromwell, 31, of West Conshohocken, was admitted to the same hospital in good condition with a possible fracture of the right leg.

Police said a broken scaffold rope caused the accident. Detective John Lutica said the rope broke on the side where Adams stood.

The men, employed by the Joseph R. Farrell Inc., building contracting firm of West Conshohocken, were at the church to make repairs to a side wall through which water had been leaking.

too, even though they get a few years of grace—as they don't usually turn 40 publicly until privately they've reached 45.

A person at 40 is often a middle-aged adolescent, feeling as lost and lonely as a rebellious teenager, a stranger in a suddenly strange world.

But at 50 a second dawn comes. One who escapes the black tunnel of the forties is like a prisoner released from a 10-year solitary confinement. When I turned 50, I felt born anew. I wanted to throw my hat in the air like a schoolboy—and would have, except that at 50 you aren't supposed to do things like that.

Being 51 is even better. But, of course, there are limits to the joy.

There are times, as you get deeper into middle age, when the days crawl by on crutches and the years whiz by on wheels. That's one of the tricks time plays on you.

MOTHER OF 4 IS BEING HELD IN $8,920 HOLDUP

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—A mother of four children, who told police she needed money to live, and her brother were being held today by Pennsylvania and New Jersey police for the $8,920 holdup of a bank here.

The woman, Mrs. Joan Nojumas, 28, of Parkland, Pa., gave herself up to police in Trevese, Pa., Tuesday night accompanied by a Roman Catholic priest.

Her brother, Lawrence P. Cooney, 24, also of Parkland, was arrested earlier in the day, about an hour after the bank robbery. Cooney was sitting in a Trenton bar watching the televised coverage of astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. when he was arrested.

FUGITIVE CHARGE
Detective Capt. Laurence Bloking said Cooney, being held in Trenton jail, was charged with armed robbery of the Western Branch of the Broad Street National Bank.

The sister was charged with being a fugitive from justice and was taken to Bucks County Prison, Doylestown, Pa., pending an extradition hearing today, state police at the Trevese barracks said.

When Cooney was arrested he admitted the holdup and named his sister as his accomplice, Bloking said.

closed in on Cooney when patrolman Samuel Romano spotted a station wagon with Pennsylvania license plates that fitted the description of a getaway car used in the bank holdup.

Bloking said Cooney, who was at the bar in the Carter Arms, owned the car in which the money was found. He said the station wagon belonged to a friend of Mrs. Nojumas.

Police said the couple entered the bank around noontime and ordered a teller, Miss Elizabeth Goke, 22, to fill a paper bag with money.

They forced the bank employees present to lie on the floor, then fled toward their waiting car, police said.

You are inside Shell's new all-weather laboratory at Wood River, Illinois. Here, Shell scientists test Super Shell for top performance in bitter cold.

Tests in Shell's new "40 below" lab prove that Super Shell 9-ingredient blend can give top performance all winter

SUPER SHELL's winter blend includes Butane for quick starts. Pentane mix for fast warm-ups. And an anti-icer to help fight stalling. Here's how they work—and how Shell engineers test them for top performance.

1. How Super Shell helps you get fast starts

Butane is the quick-firing ingredient in today's Super Shell. It can boil and turn to vapor even on ice. Butane's ability to vaporize when cold helps Super Shell start your car promptly all winter.

The starting test: A car, filled with Super Shell, soaks up zero-degree cold for 12 hours. It must then start promptly. Shell engineers run cold-starting tests on a variety of cars. They insist that Super Shell help them all start promptly.

2. How Super Shell speeds warm-ups
Pentane mix is Super Shell's fast warm-up ingredient. It ignites easily, helps speed the warm-up process.

The warm-up test: A car, filled with Super Shell, stays in the lab overnight. Temperature: zero. Next morning, the car is started and eased up to cruising speed. Suddenly, the accelerator is pushed halfway to the floor.

The car must respond smoothly, without sputtering.

3. How Super Shell fights carburetor icing

The anti-icer in Super Shell coats vital carburetor parts with a protective film. This film helps guard the parts against critical ice buildup, helps prevent icing stalls when they are most likely to occur.

The icing test: Lab temperature is raised to 40 degrees and air moisture increased. These conditions encourage carburetor icing.

REASON: Fuel evaporation lowers the temperature inside your carburetor, freezing the airborne moisture. That's how ice can build up and stall your engine—and when Super Shell's anti-icer must do its job.

Super Shell winter blend at all Shell stations today

You now know how three of Super Shell's nine ingredients work. The other six are for power, extra mileage, a quiet engine, top performance.

100 Years Ago This Week...in THE CIVIL WAR

(Events exactly 100 years ago this week that led to the Civil War—told in the language and style of today.)

Fort Donelson
Captured by North
Confederate Casualties Severe;
15,000 Are Taken Prisoner

FORT DONELSON, Tenn., Feb. 16—After three days of absorbing Union gunfire—an onslaught that left some 2,000 killed or wounded—Confederate forces today surrendered this Cumberland River installation.

GEN. FORREST

Unofficial casualty figures indicate the battle was one of the bloodiest so far in the war between Union and Confederacy.

In addition to their 2,000 casualties, the Confederates gave up almost 15,000 men as prisoners-of-war.

At least 500 Union attackers fell dead in the prolonged assault. Another 2,100 were wounded.

IT WAS the second decisive victory in two weeks for the Union's Brig. Gen. U. S. Grant, who led his troops ten days ago against nearby Fort Henry. He captured that bastion and routed the garrison.

Many of the Confederates seized here today were fugitives from Grant's fierce water-and-land assault on Fort Henry.

Fort Donelson is—or was—considered the key defense point of Nashville, current headquarters of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, area commander for the Confederates.

Three chiefs of brigade—Simon B. Buckner, John B. Floyd and Gideon J. Pillow—were assigned by Johnston to keep Fort Donelson strong.

Floyd, ranking officer, is the former secretary of war for the union, having served under President Buchanan. He is now under indictment by a Washington grand jury for juggling federal funds.

IN CHARGE of cavalry for Donelson's defenders was Lt. Col. Nathan Bedford Forrest, Forrest alone emerged with a trace of victory; he led his horsemen out of the beleaguered fort in a successful retreat before the Rebel capitulation.

The assault has earned the swiftly-rising Grant a new nickname — "Unconditional Surrender," a play on his initials.

That is what he demanded of Buckner when the latter sought truce terms after Floyd and Pillow escaped.

Grant left Fort Henry for the 12-mile march to Donelson four days ago, with some 15,000 men, including seven batteries of artillery.

FLOYD'S command was understood to have numbered some 20,000 troops. Grant's 15,000-man force was to be augmented by units aboard the Fort Henry riverboat fleet, which was approaching Donelson as it steamed up the Cumberland River.

Upon landing these men, Grant would have about 27,000 seasoned soldiers ready to go.

The riverboats—ironclads commanded by Flag Officer Andrew Foote—let loose with their hot-shot and the fortress reeled, answering Confederate gunfire damaged the majestic warships, but couldn't stop them.

Foote was wounded in the foot.

Union units under Brig. Gen. John A. McClernand and Brig. Gen. Lew Wallace fought to turn back the Confederate forces retreating from the fort.

Forrest's cavalry was the only unit to make a clean break, escaping through the lightly falling snow into the swamps.

Bowling Green
Occupied

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Feb. 17—Units of the Federal Army under Gen. Don Carlos Buell were in martial command here today after a routine occupation. Buell's forces reportedly are continuing their drive toward Nashville, Tenn.

meeting on Monday, March 19, will be Mrs. Walter F. Crouse, Mrs. William M. Ebaugh and Mrs. John F. Feeser Jr.

U.S. CHURCHMAN BARRED GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Invited to lecture at a pastors' conference in Communist East Germany, the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, and also head of the Lutheran World Federation, was denied a visa to enter that area. Dr. Fry was in Poland at the time for a LWF executive committee meeting.

ARSENAL HAS NO CANNON HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Redstone Arsenal, the Army's center of missile and rocket research, couldn't find a cannon with which to render a 19-gun salute to Belgian Ambassador Louis Schevyen. An appeal to Ft. Benning, Ga., brought a unit of the 10th Artillery Battalion.

THANKS, BUT SHE'LL WALK TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Wilma Scroggins, 30, now is a confirmed pedestrian. She told police she paid a man 75 cents to drive her home from a dry cleaning shop, only to have him speed away with clothing worth $100 when she got out.
